Sisters and daughters of Bihar have voted this time in record numbers to show how big their role is in self-sufficient Bihar. We are satisfied that NDA got an opportunity to give new confidence to the mother power of Bihar in the past years. This confidence will give us strength in advancing Bihar

Narendra Modi, Prime Minister

If Nitish Kumar becomes Bihar chief minister, despite winning less number of seats (as compared to the BJP), he should thank the Shiv Sena for it

Sanjay Raut, Shiv Sena MP

Our strike rate in Bihar is 80% and if we had been given more seats, we would have contributed more to the MGB tally

Sitaram Yechury, CPM leader

A sinister campaign was run against Nitish Kumar as part of a conspiracy. Our own also harmed us along with the outsiders

K C Tyagi, JD(U) spokesperson

I would be able to answer (on whether to extend support to Mahagathbandhan) once the final results are out. Why should I speculate now?

BJP sweeps bypolls in MP, UP, Gujarat; wrests Dubbaka seat from TRS

MANISH ANAND @New Delhi

IF the bypoll verdict on Tuesday is any indicator, Prime Minister Narendra Modi continues to be popular, as the BJP bagged or was leading in as many as 40 of 59 Assembly seats across 11 states.

The biggest gainers were Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and his Manipur counterpart N Biren Singh, as they were assured of stability on the back of the BJP's sweeping victories in both the states.

Barring Haryana and Telangana, ruling dispensations managed to control the bypoll narrative elsewhere. Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath further consolidated his hold, winning six of the seven Assembly by-election seats at stake. Chief ministers B S Yediyurappa (Karnataka), Naveen Patnaik (Odisha) and Hemant Soren's alliance (Jharkhand) bagged two seats each in their respective states. In Gujarat, the BJP government led by Vijay Rupani won all eight Assembly bypoll seats.

The big surprise came from Telangana as the BJP bagged the Dubbaka Assembly seat with a slender margin. Its nominee M Raghunandan Rao trounced TRS's Solipeta Sujatha by 1,118 votes. By wresting the seat, the party got bragging rights for taking its Mission South agenda forward.

The BJP's performance came despite its national leadership staying away from the campaigns, focus as it did on the Bihar Assembly polls instead. The party's state leaders demonstrated their dominance over the Congress in Madhya Pradesh and Gujarat, while denying opportunity to the Samajwadi Party in Uttar Pradesh to make a comeback.

Defector Jyotiraditya Scindia delivered on his promise as the BJP shrugged off a spirited Kamal Nath-led Congress campaign to win 19 of the total 27 Assembly seats. In Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat and Manipur, the BJP's fortunes rode on imports from the Congress in recent times.

As for the big picture, BJP leaders sought to read in the outcome a vote of confidence of the people in the leadership of the Prime Minister amid the Covid-19 pandemic.

BIHAR 2020 DECIDE

RAJESH THAKUR & MANISH ANAND
@Patna/New Delhi

IF ever there was a cliffhanger of an election, with the pendulum swinging wildly by the hour, this was it. Till late evening, the day belonged to the alliance led by the Bharatiya Janata Party-Janata Dal (United), prompting the BJP to prepare for a grand victory celebration at the central party office in the heart of Delhi.

But the ladoos, firecrackers and dhols had to be put on hold as the Rashtriya Janata Dal-led mahagathbandhan closed in, turning the Bihar election 2020 into an edge of the seat thriller. Till midnight the ruling alliance was still marginally ahead, with leads/wins in 125 out of the 243 seats while the mahagathbandhan had 110.

But the results/trends also exposed the fault lines between the BJP and the JD (U). This was because the JD (U) was the biggest loser, relegated to a distant third at 43 seats, down nearly 30 from its 2015 tally. For this, it openly blamed Chirag Paswan's Lok Janshakti Party.

While the LJP just won a single seat, it ate up 5.7% of the vote share, cutting into the JD(U)'s base. More significantly, Chirag had openly worked against chief minister Nitish Kumar during the campaign while praising Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

With such a close race not witnessed in a long time and throwing up many possibilities, BJP leaders Sushil Modi, Bhupendra Yadav, Nityanand Rai and Sanjay Jaiswal rushed to Nitish's residence, remaining closeted till late at night and reassuring the chief minister that he was their leader. Union Home Minister Amit Shah also called Nitish.

But whatever be Nitish's grudge against Chirag, the election results only underlined his waning appeal. The mass mood was that he had become arrogant in the last five years, ruling the state through an unpopular and inaccessible bureaucracy. So, even if he becomes the first Bihar CM to rule for a fourth straight term, his position is bound to be much weaker.

In 27 seats, the margins were so thin that the Rashtriya Janata Dal smelt a rat. Party leader Tejashwi Yadav filed a written complaint with the Election Commission in Patna, complaining of being robbed of at least seven seats. But addressing the media past 10 pm, EC officials in New Delhi denied the charge.

The election result was also a story of what might have been for the young Tejashwi. Throughout the campaign, he drew large crowds and created a huge hype around the unemployment problem in the state. But that didn't translate into votes.

The uniform view for this failure was that Tejashwi was unable to shake off the widespread feeling among the people that if the RJD came to power, it would mean the return of the jungle raj. This fear of a return to lawlessness was repeatedly stressed by Modi and Nitish at rallies and on the face of it, jungle raj trumped unemployment.

"The NDA campaign on the return of the jungle raj created a kind of fear psychosis among the voters," said R K Verma, a political analyst.

The numbers also signalled a deeper churning in state politics, with sub-regional factors playing out. While the NDA did exceedingly well in the Seemanchal, Mithila, Champaran and Ang regions, the mahagathbandhan performed better in the Bhojpur, Magadh and central parts of Bihar.

The election also saw the emergence of Asaduddin Owaisi's All-India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen as a force in some Muslim-dominated areas, harming the RJD. The AIMIM benefited from its alliance with Mandalite parties such as the Rashtriya Lok Samta Party and helped itself by winning five seats, up from one it held in the outgoing assembly.

Firefighters battle the raging inferno at a chemical godown in New Guddadahalli, Bengaluru, on Tuesday. The fire raged on for eight hours before it was put out | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

Massive blaze at chemical godown causes ₹3 cr damage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

SPARKS emanating from static charge while transferring chemicals from one barrel to another through a pipe caused a huge fire at a godown at Kuvempu Nagar in New Guddadahalli around 11 am on Tuesday. The blaze raged for a little over eight hours, causing damage to the tune of about ₹3 crore. Three firemen were injured and seven vehicles parked in the compound were gutted, even as four workers miraculously managed to escape just as the fire broke out.

The blaze was so intense and spreading very rapidly that the fire services and local authorities evacuated residents living in a radius of about 200 metres, moving out all LPG cylinders. The firemen were forced to get onto the terraces of adjacent buildings to aim the water and foam hoses at the fire in an attempt to douse it.

The property belonged to Rekha Chemical Corporation Pvt Ltd, which has its factory in Bommasandra Industrial Area.

Police said solvents used to produce sanitisers, thinners and other chemicals were stored in the godown. Around 11 am on Tuesday, a worker, identified as Bijukumar, was unloading a chemical from a barrel to another through a pipe, when sparks caused a massive fire. Four workers, including Bijukumar, managed to escape to safety.

Local residents alerted the Fire & Emergency Services Department at 11.18 am and soon, fire tenders rushed to the spot. Initially, there was a setback as fire tenders could not reach sooner due to the narrow lanes surrounding the residential area. As many as 22 fire tenders finally managed to get there and douse the fire in an operation lasting more than eight hours.

"As the godown was filled with chemical barrels, explosions kept occurring, emitting huge flames and heavy smoke, which were visible from kilometres away. Two foam tankers, specialised in tackling chemical fires, were also pressed into service," an official said. P5

With 3 more seats, saffron party now largest in Council

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

THE BJP has won three of the four Legislative Council seats, for which polls were held recently. The party was trailing in one seat after two rounds of counting.

With this, the BJP emerges as the single-largest party in the 75-member Upper House with 31 seats as against the Congress with 29 seats. If the party manages to win the fourth seat too, and with the support of an Independent, its strength will rise to 33, while it needs 38 seats to get full majority in the House. The BJP may also stake claim for chairmanship in the next session and unseat present Chairman Prathapchandra Shetty of the Congress.

Gaining the upper hand in the Council will be important for the BJP as it had to face the embarrassment of not being able to push through crucial Bills on land and APMC reforms, among others. P4

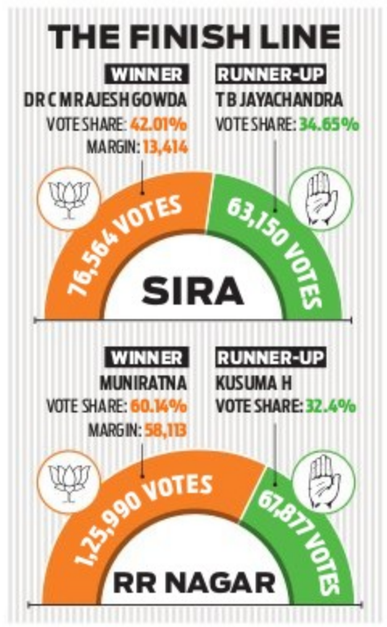
BJP scripts history in Sira bypoll, wins big in Rajarajeshwari Nagar



ANUSHA RAVI @Bengaluru

THE Bharatiya Janata Party's juggernaut, which has been hoisting its flag on untouched territory, seems to be pushing through in Karnataka. After KR Pet in 2019, it was Sira on Tuesday. Whether it was the convention of bypolls favouring incumbent governments or the BJP's tactical social re-engineering efforts, coupled with disgruntlement towards Congress and JDS, for the second time in less than a year, the saffron party won a seat that it has never tasted electoral victory in.

With an electoral novice as its candidate, the BJP snatched the JDS-Congress fortress of Sira, a Vokkaliga-dominant seat, in the bypolls, voting for which was held on November 3.

As anticipated, BJP candidate Muniratna emerged victorious in Rajarajeshwari Nagar assembly constituency, but the highlight was the massive margin of 58,113 votes. In Sira, Dr C M Rajesh Gowda of the BJP beat former minister and Congress candidate T B Jayachandra by 13,414 votes.

The BJP, which has barely ever secured more than 20,000 votes in Sira, secured 42 per cent vote share, creating history. "This is a pro-people, pro-farmer government that fulfils its promises. The victory in both the seats is an indication that people are with us. I intend to expand the cabinet in a day or two," declared a victorious Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa.

With his spectacular win, Muniratna is now one step closer to being inducted into the Yediyurappa cabinet in keeping with the promise made to him while shifting to the BJP from the Congress.

Despite fielding its old warhorse, the Congress was decimated in Sira in DK Shivakumar's first election as KPCC president. P4

STINK BOMB TICKS IN ELECTRONICS CITY, RESIDENTS FURIOUS

Locals angry with BBMP for letting out leachate from waste plant into fields, drains; say police didn't register their complaint against corporation, officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE residents of Chikkanagamanagala village in Electronic City are up in arms against the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) for letting out the leachate and liquid waste from the solid waste management processing unit into the fields and open drains.

According to locals, they are unable to step out of their homes due to the foul smell, mosquitoes and other insects. They are also worried about drawing water from borewells fearing groundwater contamination.

During late night hours, BBMP workers use pipes and let out water and leachate into the open fields and drains, allege locals

"Earlier in June, leachate was seen flowing out of the treatment plant from the gates. BBMP had done little to address the issue. But now, during late night hours, the workers use pipes and let out the water and leachate into the open fields and drains. This is only making matters worse. We noticed it on Monday night and pointed this to the BBMP and Karnataka State Pollution Control Board," said D Chandru, a local.

S Shridhar, another resident, said the police did not register our complaint against the corporation and the officials. "No police permission was given to stage a protest this time. The lorries taking the leachate leak, so it is not just the area around the plant that is filthy and stinking, but all the roads in the vicinity," he said.

D Randeep, BBMP Special Commissioner, SWM, said, "There is a direct allegation that the BBMP workers are letting out the leachate, a report from the staffers has been sought. I will visit the plant to take stock of the ground reality."

Meanwhile, acting on the complaint, KSPCB officials visited the site on Tuesday evening. "Though the plant and machinery are good, the corporation should be more serious about its management. It has been learnt that they have doubled the waste-holding capacity from 15,000 litres. A show-cause notice has been served and a mahajar has been drawn. Member Secretary of the Board will also hold a hearing to address the issue," an official said.

BBMP Administrator Gaurav Gupta said the matter is serious and will be dealt with sternly.

WASTE WOES

BBMP had set up the plant at a cost of ₹240 crore to address the waste generated from the city. This is one of the seven solid waste management processing plants in Bengaluru. Locals are against the plant and want it removed from their neighbourhood. In October, a Twitter storm was held to draw the attention of the government.

HC to govt: See if action can be taken against BDA chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A communication said to be issued by the BDA Commissioner to officials not to appear before any investigating agency and provide documents without his prior permission is now before the Karnataka High Court.

Observing that the state cannot be a silent spectator when the court recorded prima facie findings about the BDA Commissioner's conduct, the Court on Wednesday directed the government to examine whether action can be initiated against him under the BDA Act.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty passed the order after going through the statement of objections filed by the BDA Commissioner to the PIL filed by S Arunachalam, questioning the validity of the communication.

The petitioner questioned the 'office note' dated July 8, 2020 issued by the Commissioner stating that BDA staff and officials should not produce documents or appear before the investigating agencies such as the Anti Corruption Bureau and Bangalore Metropolitan Task Force, when called for inquiry, without his prior permission.

The bench called the note an attempt by the commissioner to interfere with investigation, and stayed the English version of the note till further orders. The Kannada version was stayed during the previous hearing.

The bench was unhappy with the BDA for extracting the same tone and tenor from the Kannada note in the English version submitted to the court and also about no specific stand taken by the state though direction was issued at the last hearing.

The BDA counsel said the sum and substance of the Kannada note was retained in the English version to maintain similarity. The intention of the communication was not to interfere with the investigation but only to ensure prior information to the Commissioner.

While 17 sites were cancelled due to the poor bids they received, three were cancelled as they did not fetch the expected amount. ENS

11th November: Keep an eye on Scorpio people today: it seems likely that they'll be making the running in most areas. That doesn't mean that everyone else has to take second - or third - place, just that Scorpios will often have the best ideas and frequently the energy to carry them through. What they'll need from everyone else, though, is a steadying hand.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
It's time to de-stress! To be quite specific for once, this is an absolutely ideal moment to book in for a peaceful time, tucked away in a rural retreat. Otherwise, you will just have to make do! Whatever you're up to, though, make physical fitness your first priority.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Now is the moment to stick to your principles. Your cautious, conservative plans are favoured: come out of the woodwork and claim your birthright as a traditionalist and don't let anyone persuade you that you need to break your favourite habits. By the way, this is also a perfect period for the young-at-heart.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Professional decisions, whether taken by you or a partner, must combine a sense of what is necessary financially, together with an understanding of what will enable you to enhance the quality of your life. Start by building firm foundations: this is not time for fanciful dreamers.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You have high principles, no doubt about that. The only question at the present time is whether you are prepared to make the necessary compromises and accept half a loaf rather than none. Actually, financial pressures build up as the days pass, with a major opportunity at the end of the week.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Comforting developments are due today, perhaps because there's a prevailing sense that security is a necessary attribute of the civilised lifestyle. You should receive some welcome reassurance before long. Until then, continue to do the right thing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Matters of a long-term financial or business nature must be set aside for a while, for a number of very good reasons. For a start, it is personal issues which count for more. And, secondly, it is a short-term gamble which is likely to do you most good. But your timing must be perfect!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
There are sound astrological reasons why this is an opportune moment to sort out various personal affairs. For one thing, it seems pretty certain that partners will respond to your suggestions with understanding and sympathy and plenty of warmth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The most prominent planet of the moment is Saturn, a serious celestial body which encourages you to explain yourself clearly, come to sensible decisions and put your ideas into practice. But how do you do this? By making as much effort as you possibly can!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Although there's some movement at home, I feel that you're still in the planning stage as far as major long-term ventures are concerned. You've a little while to go yet before you can crank yourself in to top gear. Glad to say, though, you should have a much more positive outlook very soon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Others' expectations of you are not always fair. Yet the question is; how should you respond to their demands? By ignoring them, perhaps? Maybe the best way forward is to put extra effort into your own favourite activities -and steer clear of unwanted confrontation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
What on earth is happening with your finances? The presence of that muddled sign, Pisces, certainly seems to be suggesting confusion and possibly one or two bad buys, yet something very wonderful may come out of current discussions. That has to be worth the wait.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Secret romances are suggested by the current frivolous planetary alignment, as are charitable ventures and determined efforts to help other people. Your pleasure-loving instincts are emerging, as are your selfless ideals. What a potentially perfect position to be in!

Decline in numbers welcome, but test quality must improve: Analysis

Govt must focus on testing vulnerable groups in the shortest span of time, experts say

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

THE number of daily additions to Bengaluru's Covid cases may be on the decline, but there is room for increasing qualitative testing to detect more positive cases and avoid a potential increase in severe infections or mortality, according to an analysis by a management consultancy.

Bengaluru's Effective Testing Positivity Rate (ETPR) was 17.5% in early September and dropped to 13% on November 8, showed the analysis by Jeevan Raksha, an initiative of consultancy Proxima.

The ETPR is different from the Total Positivity Rate (TPR), which is the number of positives expressed as a percentage of the total number of tests. The ETPR is the total number of new tests done on a daily basis, but excludes the positives from at least 20% of retests. While the decline of the TPR is a welcome sign, the ETPR aims at increasing the 'positive' detection rate in the number of tests done per day. This means that a reduction in the ETPR is not a good sign because it implies that tests are being done on healthier people instead of those who are likely to contract the infection - elderly people, those with comorbidities, pregnant women, those with weakened immunity, or those more exposed to the disease.

A health worker collects a sample from a child in Bengaluru | MEGHANA SASTRY

An expert said that an individual whose first test came back negative but the second confirmed Covid-19 infection would be excluded from the ETPR. These comprise at least 20% of people excluded from the ETPR, meaning that the decline in the ETPR is artificial as the precise number is ignored.

In September, Bengaluru conducted a total of 6.6 lakh tests, resulting in 1.3 lakh positive cases. In October, the number of tests rose to 10 lakh, but the number of positive cases remained at 1.3 lakh. Experts said this indicated lack of testing among high-risk categories.

Bengaluru recognised that testing was inadequate in August, and ramped up capacity, said Sanjeev Mysore, convenor of Jeevan Raksha. "The active cases dropped sharply, month-on-month, and the number of deaths marginally reduced. Now, Bengaluru has got the quantitative aspect right, but it should give due attention to qualitative aspects which include tracing and testing the most vulnerable group within the shortest time span," he said.

> If the right people are not traced and tested, low number of cases will be reported, but the threat of infection spread remains
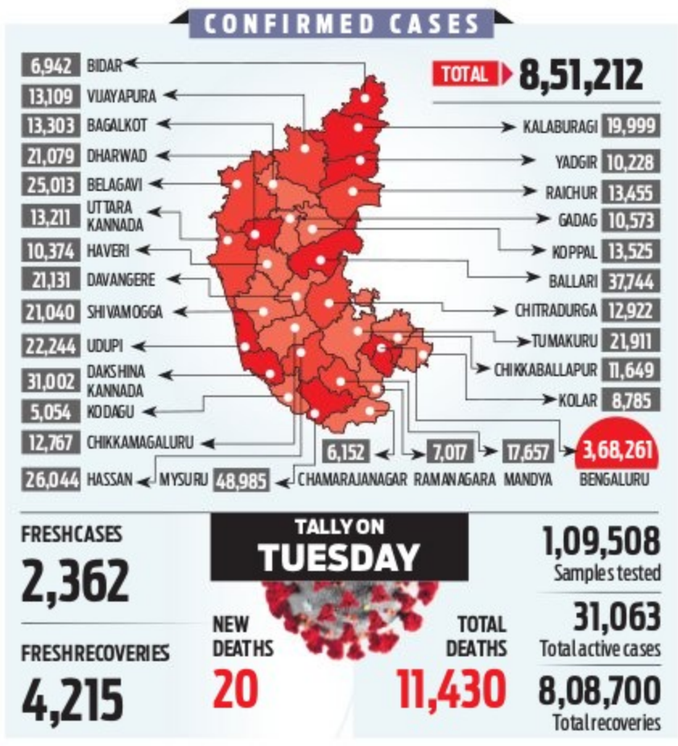
> Sanjeev Mysore, convenor, Jeevan Raksha

The decline in the ETPR contradicts the results of both the government and private serosurveys, which found that up to 27% and 45% respectively of Karnataka's population had the infection at the time of survey or had been infected in the past.

Poor testing yield indicates high probability of testing low-risk people without clear justification. Poor testing is also caused by high usage of Rapid Antigen Tests which have a high probability of false negative results.

"Qualitative improvement in coming weeks could yield better results. If the right people are not traced and tested, the testing yield (those testing positive) will be less and low number of cases will be reported, but the threat of infection spread remains," Mysore said.



Number of Covid cases on the decline in Shivamogga

RAMACHANDRA V GUNARI @Shivamogga

FOR the past two weeks, Shivamogga district has recorded less than 50 Covid cases, and has also seen a drop in fatalities.

District health and family welfare officer Dr Rajesh Suragihalli, said that the decline of started from the third week of September. "It dropped from more than 250 cases in September, to barely 100 cases in the first and second week of October. Since the last week of October, the number of cases decreased further," he said.

Dr Suragihalli attributed the decline to a possible increase in immunity, and also more adherence to government guidelines.

Bhadravathi and Shikaripura taluks recorded more cases and presently the situation is under control.

Suragihalli said, "Everyday more than 2,500 samples are being tested, out of which, the number of positives are varying between 30 and 60."

Status of Covid Care Centres

Operations have been suspended in all Covid care centres in the city and taluk headquarters as very few cases were being reported in past 15-20 days.

However, DHO cautioned that people must not let their guard down as winter set in, as flu and cold spread easily during the season. He also urged people to continue to wear masks, maintain physical distance and wash hands.

IISc aims at heat tolerant vaccine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

RESEARCHERS at the Indian Institute of Science are developing a viable portent-based vaccine that can withstand hot and cold temperatures.

Developed by the Molecular Biophysics Unit at IISc, the vaccine is yet to undergo clinical trials. It remains stable at 37 degrees Celsius for a up to a month, and freeze-dried dozes could tolerate temperatures as high as 100 degrees Celsius. This comes from the understanding that resource-poor regions will be unable to use vaccines that need refrigeration.

"Virtually all SARS-CoV-2 vaccines currently in clinical testing are stored in a refrigerated or frozen state prior to use," researchers said in a study published in the Journal of Biological Chemistry.

Unlike vaccines that target viral RNA, the researchers have mooted the less common idea of targeting viral protein. The team is looking for funds for clinical development, Raghavan Varadarajan, Professor at the Molecular Biophysics Unit, said in a release.

This would include safety and toxicity studies in rats along with process development and GMP manufacture of a clinical trial batch before it is tested in humans. "Those studies can cost about Rs 10 crore. Unless the government funds us, we might not be able to take it forward," he added.

Mysuru observes low-key Tipu Jayanti

MYSURU: Due to Covid-19 restrictions, Mysuru observed a low-key Tipu Jayanti on Tuesday, without the usual fanfare of processions, shops and houses lined fancy adornments such as tiger-print flags with Tipu's portrait. However, marking the day, a remembrance meeting was hosted at Apna Ghar Masjid-E-Rifah which saw the presence of MLA Tanveer Sait, seers, religious leaders, and Congress leaders. Speaking on the occasion, Sait said the hate towards Tipu is absurd since he is a son of Karnataka and did a lot for the state and its struggle against the British. It shameful to see people spewing venom against the Muslim community using Tipu's name, Sait said. He challenged those flaying Tipu for an open debate to prove them wrong.

Experts suggest 2 more rounds of sero surveys in Karnataka

The first serosurvey

- September 3-16
- Tested people aged 18 and above in 30 districts Three groups of people surveyed: low-risk (pregnant women, outpatients hospitals); middle-risk (people moving about publicly such as bus conductors, vendors, health care workers, people in markets, shops, bus stops, railway stations); high-risk (elderly and comorbid people)
- Used Rapid Antigen Test and RT-PCR to diagnose infection
- Serum testing for Immunoglobulin (igG) antibodies was done to determine immune response based on ICMR protocol

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

THE State government must conduct two more rounds of sero survey - one in December and another in March - to determine the extent of the spread of Covid-19, experts have suggested.

"At least two more rounds of survey have to be done to see the changing trend of the population response to SARS CoV-2 infections in the months after the first round," said Dr Giridhara R Babu, senior epidemiologist and advisor to the state Covid technical committee.

A sero survey is a population-wide test of blood samples of randomly selected people across ages and regions to look for antibodies against a specific pathogen. The results indicate how much of the population is/was likely infected and how many have recovered and can help shape strategic decisions.

The first sero survey in September found that 1.93 crore people across Karnataka were infected by Covid or had the infection in the past.

Though the parameters for the second and third round would be the same as the first one, epidemiologists expect that since testing has increased, they may find changes in the virus' behaviour.

A senior doctor from the technical committee said the state government is yet to approve subsequent sero surveys. He said that December would be ideal for the second round as it was just after Deepavali and coincided with the onset of winter when cases are expected to spike. Two more surveys would be ideal to ascertain the cases-infection ratio. "Several states have already done their second sero survey. It is in fact, delayed in Karnataka. However, we hope the government approves one as early as possible and makes arrangements to begin it in December," the doctor said.

Meanwhile, epidemiologists have recommended district-level facility-based sentinel sero-surveillance to monitor the trend of infection in the long-term. "A follow-up survey is planned to assess the extent and speed of transmission and evaluate the impact of containment strategies over time in the state," Health and Medical Education Minister Sudhakar had said while releasing the report of the first sero survey.

The Karnataka government must conduct two more rounds of serosurvey - one in December and another in March - to determine the extent of the spread of Covid-19, experts have suggested

SHOT IN ARM FOR BJP; DKS UNDER SCRUTINY

CM consolidates his position, government to now focus on development works | Differences between leaders, cadre blamed for Congress loss in both seats | Intense campaigning by Gowda, HDK failed to impress voters even in old bastion of Sira

RAMU PATIL @ Bengaluru

THE bypoll results are a shot in the arm for Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa as it will further strengthen his position and put speculation over leadership change to rest.

"The results have further strengthened our government and we will focus on the development initiatives with renewed vigour," Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar told The New Indian Express. Development works which took a backseat due to the pandemic are now expected to get a push. The consolidated position of the CM is likely to trigger the administrative machinery into action mode.

The landslide victory in RR Nagar and maiden win in Sira have further bolstered the confidence of the ruling party ahead of a series of elections, including bypolls to two Assembly segments and Lok Sabha seat, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike and panchayat elections.

The BJP is set to face these polls with a renewed confidence under Yediyurappa's leadership, while Congress' hopes of halting its downslide after DK Shivakumar taking over as party chief appear to have crashed.

Though Shivakumar put up a brave front by taking responsibility for the defeat, failure to make an impact in the Vokkaliga-dominated constituencies may put his leadership under scrutiny.

Sources in the Congress told The New Indian Express that the party lacked a clear strategy in the run-up to the polls and its campaign in RR Nagar merely focused on criticising the BJP candidate.

"After Munirathna left Congress and joined BJP with his supporters, Congress had enough time to start preparations, but failed to do so," the sources said. There was a complete disconnect between cadres and leaders, so much so that Congress even failed to get its voters to polling stations. If the victory margin is anything to go by, the BJP seems to have got support from those who voted for Congress in the last elections. In Sira, it was T B Jayachandra's own connect with voters that helped him put up a good fight.

Murmurs have begun over different factions not working in coordination, and party leaders' differing comments over Congress' chief ministerial candidate damaging its prospects.

"The results have clearly indicated that just rhetoric won't work and Shivakumar faces a big challenge to prove his leadership by winning elections," the sources added. Forthcoming polls are set to test his leadership yet again.

While the ground seems to be caving in under the Congress' feet, it is an existential crisis for JDS, whose leaders may find consolation from Congress' poor show under fellow Vokkaliga leader Shivakumar.

Despite former PM Deve Gowda's intense campaigning, the party ended up in the third place in Sira where it had won in 2018 elections. And HD Kumaraswamy's blitzkrieg failed to impress voters in RR Nagar where its candidate was not even in the contention. The JDS that has presence only in Old Mysuru region is losing election after election.

While talk about JDS' tacit understanding with BJP seems to have caused damage to the regional party, it faces a challenge of ridding the image of being a family-centric party.

"It is time for serious introspection to find a remedy, failing which the cadre will be demoralised. The party must take a clear, firm and principled stand," said senior JDS leader YSV Datta.

Triumphant trio: Vijayendra, Ravikumar & Karjol did it

BJP workers celebrate the party's win in RR Nagar, on Tuesday | VINOD KUMAR

ANUSHA RAVI @BENGALURU

WHEN state BJP vice-president and Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's son B Y Vijayendra visited Sira on September 21 this year, he was far from being appointed as one of the in-charges for the Assembly seat bypoll. Not the one to wait, Vijayendra had started his homework much earlier.

When he was made one of the eight in-charges finally in October, all he needed to do was execute his plan from the recce. For a man who was once denied an Assembly ticket during the 2018 Assembly elections by the Central leadership, Vijayendra has proven, for the second time, to be an election winner. On Tuesday when BJP bagged Sira for the first time, Vijayendra was one of the primary reasons for the victory.

Vijayendra improvised taking off from his KR Pete bypoll victory lessons. Backed by cadres from neighbouring constituencies, the strategy was clearly to appeal to women and youth voters. "The good turnout was a result of us being able to convince voters to vote beyond the compulsions of caste. Women and youngsters have come out in our support. We asked for one chance for us. People have voted for development," Vijayendra told TNIE, even as his supporters cheered on in the background.

The pitch was simple, vote for a candidate whose party is in power. "Our mantra was to use the disappointment against Congress and JDS to our favour," he added. From temple gatherings, village corner meetings, everyday prayer time meetings, individual micro-caste leader meetings to wooing seers, Vijayendra turned BJP's unconventional campaign ideators.

After working a caste combination magic in the Gulbarga Lok Sabha election which became the sabre to slay a giant like Mallikarjun Kharge, BJP state general secretary N Ravi Kumar weaved the caste combination like a plait in Sira.

In a seat with no great cadre base, Deputy Chief Minister Govind Karjol played a key role in consolidating backward classes and Dalit votes. Despite facing criticism for choosing to campaign instead of visiting flood-hit districts, Karjol continued with his consolidation efforts.

In Rajarajeshwari Nagar, given N Munirathna's popularity and money and muscle power, the BJP had little to worry about, but for managing differences within the party. State party vice-president Arvind Limbavali doubled up as logistics manager to ensure smooth functioning of the party machinery in support of Munirathna. Given that Munirathna was up against two Vokkaliga candidates in a Vokkaliga-dominated constituency, Revenue Minister R Ashok stepped in to consolidate the community votes. While in Sira the strategy was to goad everyone to the polling station, it was the opposite at Rajarajeshwari Nagar. Intense efforts were made to convince non-BJP voters to refrain from voting.

BJP chants booth mantra, tastes success

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

IT'S a sweet victory in every way for the BJP. For the first time, it has won the Sira assembly segment, and its debutant has defeated the veteran Congress candidate.

BJP which started literally from scratch as it had no party base there tasted triumph, thanks to the efforts of leaders like B Y Vijayendra, party state vice president, and party state secretary and senior MLC N Ravikumar.

Ravikumar, who camped in Sira for close to two months, said they adopted party national leader Amit Shah's concept of 'Agar booth jitega, toh constituency jitega' (If we win the booth, we will win the constituency).

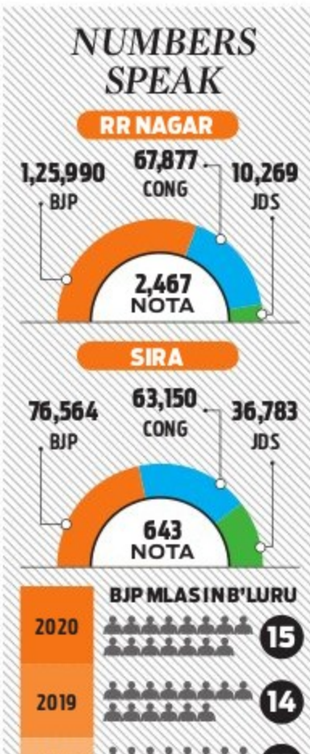
BJP hardly got 8 to 9 per cent votes in previous elections. This time, its candidate Dr Rajesh Gowda won by a margin of 13,414 votes against Congress veteran T B Jayachandra.

Speaking to TNIE, Ravikumar said he visited all the 264 booths in Sira. "I spoke to local leaders, won their trust, created booth-level committees and formed a WhatsApp group," he said.

They mapped out a strategy for the booths, which was largely dependent on the 'Page Pramukh' concept, where one page of the voters' list from each booth was given to a BJP worker. Each page had a list of voters from 10 to 12 families. The Page Pramukh's job was to ensure that these voters reached the booth and voted for the BJP.

Though the date for the Maski bypoll is not announced, Ravikumar has been told to start the ground work. He will be heading to Maski constituency after November 13.

NUMBERS SPEAK



Misuse of power helped BJP win. We will accept the verdict. We thought we would win in Sira and fight neck-and-neck in RR Nagar, but it didn't go as expected

Siddaramaiah, CLP leader

Winning both seats proves that the public trusts Yediyurappa. BJP has won again in the MLC polls, which indicates that educated people also favour BJP

Pralhad Joshi, Union Minister

We accept the verdict with humility. Bypolls will not decide the future of parties. We will not be demoralised and continue to work on strengthening the party

With Cong votes in hand, Munirathna sweeps RR Nagar, doubles vote margin

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AS expected, BJP candidate N Munirathna won against Congress candidate H Kusuma in the Rajarajeshwari Nagar Assembly constituency, where the bypoll result came out on Tuesday.

It was a no-contest as Munirathna almost doubled his victory margin to 57,672 votes from his previous election, which he had won on a Congress ticket in 2018.

Munirathna, one of the turncoats who joined the BJP last year, seems to have retained his traditional Congress votes and also gained the BJP electoral base. The proof was the 1.25 lakh votes he garnered, making it a whopping 60 per cent of the total 2.09 lakh votes polled. In 2018, while contesting as a Congress candidate, he got 1.08 lakh votes or 45 per cent of the 2.4 lakh total votes.

The victory has only upped the supremacy of BJP in Bengaluru, increasing the number of party MLAs in the city to 15.

Munirathna was a BBMP councillor before he was given a Congress ticket to contest the Assembly poll in 2013. He has never looked back since then. This time, the BJP picked him only after the court cleared him of poll malpractice charges and allowed him to contest.

R Ashoka from the old guard, S T Somashekar and Byrathi Basavaraju from the new camp, former minister and BJP general secretary Aravind Limbavali and CM's political secretary SR Vishwanath were part of the election team that ensured his victory.

Munirathna, who is a contender for a cabinet berth, said, "I will not demand any particular portfolio. It is up to the chief minister and party leaders to decide."

Asked about KPCC president DK Shivakumar and his MP-brother D K Ravi, who campaigned hard against him during the campaigning, he said, "Politics ends when election results are out. We will work with them to develop RR Nagar."

BJP breaks ground in Sira, swings Cong-JDS bastion

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Tumakuru

THE BJP created history of sorts on Tuesday when its candidate Dr C M Rajesh Gowda emerged victorious in Sira Assembly constituency, which has been a traditional JDS and Congress bastion.

Except for the first three elections, starting with 1951, when the independents won, the constituency has chosen Congress, Janata Party and JD(S) candidates repeatedly.

The JDS which had bagged 74,338 votes in 2018 had to be content with only 35,982 this time. Banking on the sympathy factor, it had fielded Sathyanarayana's wife Ammajamma. But the plan bombed despite JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda, former CM H D Kumaraswamy, his son Nikhil, former minister H D Revanna and his son and Hassan MP Prajwal campaigning aggressively.

Whatever the JDS lost, the BJP seems to have gained.

It is evident too by the fact that Congress candidate Jayachandra, who was the runner-up in the 2018 election and had garnered 63,973 votes, this time too hit a similar target with 61,673 votes.

Surprised by BJP's Sira show: Cong

CONGRESS' debutante candidate in Rajarajeshwari Nagar also failed to impress voters. "We accept the people's mandate. We were confident of winning. The BJP getting so many votes come as a surprise to us," said Shivakumar, trying to sound optimistic.

Despite coming very close to challenging the BJP's unstoppable lead in Sira, Jayachandra, who is currently under treatment for Covid-19, fell woefully short despite his popularity. Kusuma too was no match for Muniratna's popularity in the Rajarajeshwari Nagar and managed to get a vote share of just about 32%.

The JDS, which is already struggling to stay relevant in state politics on its own, was decimated in two Vokkaliga dominant seats, the community which is the party's core voter base. A last-minute push by party patriarch H D Deve Gowda in Sira may have brought the JDS some face-saving votes, but Congress Legislature party chief Siddaramaiah insisted that the JDS' votes which went to BJP cost Congress the election.

The results have come as a shot in the arm for Yediyurappa, who has been struggling with internal bickering, once again proving himself as a leader who delivers.

JDS must introspect about its loss: Puttanna

THE BJP's Puttanna has won his fourth term from the Bangalore Teachers constituency while his JDS challenger A P Ranganath fell short by over 2,000 preferential votes. Congress' first-time candidate Praveen Kumar was a distant third with 782 votes. Puttanna told TNIE that the JDS leadership has to introspect why the party lost even after a strong campaign by the party leadership.

In the North-East Teachers constituency, BJP's Shashil Namoshi, who has been MLC for three terms, polled 10,212 votes against nearest competitor Sharanappa Mattur who got 7,072 votes. Of the 21,437 votes polled, 1,844 votes were invalid and rejected.

Though Namoshi had maintained the lead and secured 9,418 votes at the end of counting of all 21,437 votes, he was short of 79 votes (9,497 votes required for winning under preferential voting system). After eliminating Independent candidate Chandrakant Singe, Vatal Paksha candidate Vatal Nagaraj and JDS' Thimmaiah Purle, Namoshi was declared elected.

Prior to elimination, Thimmaiah secured 3,812 votes, Chandrakant got 91 votes and Vatal Nagaraj secured 59 votes.

BJP's S V Sanknur was declared winner from the West Graduates constituency with 23,800 votes, while Dr R M Kuberappa of Congress polled about 8,700 votes. Independent Basavaraj Terdal got 6,000 votes.

In the South East Graduates constituency, BJP's Chidanand M Gowda was leading after the first round of counting. However, after the second round, BJP rebel candidate D T Srinivas was ahead with 7,726 votes, while the BJP official candidate Chidananda had 7,172 votes. Chowda Reddy Thoopali of JDS was in third with 5,253 votes and Ramesh Babu of Congress had about 2,500 votes.

BJP MLC Ravikumar was confident of party candidate's victory despite the early setback saying there are second preference votes too that need to be considered.

CONG SUFFERS FROM 'IF ONLY'...

Tumakuru: Seems like Congress is now left with 'if onlys'. If only the Congress high command gave in to its second thoughts about Sira candidate T B Jayachandra. A video clip of the party's state in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala speaking to KPCC president D K Shivakumar went viral. "Don't you have any candidate other than Jayachandra?" Randeep asked. But by then Jayachandra's name had been sent to the high command. If only Siddaramaiah recommended Dr Rajesh Gowda's name for the party ticket when he met him through Dr Yathindra Siddaramaiah.

A HOLE IN THEIR POCKETS

Tumakuru: BJP pocketed Sira, but lost some! When BJP workers were rejoicing the win of Dr C M Rajesh Gowda, they didn't realise that pickpockets were having a field day. The nimble-fingered ones made hay when B Y Vijayendra was speaking to the media. Thieves picked the pockets of BJP leader Mahadev Gowda, of a party supporter and a journalist, walking away with Rs 50,000, Rs 4,000 and Rs 10,000, respectively.

SRISHTI SCHOOL OF DESIGN NOW PART OF MAHE

To be relocated to Manipal Academy's 80-acre campus in Yelahanka by 2022

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA @Bengaluru

SRISHTI Institute of Art Design and Technology is now a constituent unit of Manipal Academy of Higher Education (MAHE). The merger process has been completed and all the lecturers of Srishti are on the rolls of MAHE. All the programmes have been approved by the Academic Body of MAHE, said Lt. Gen. (Dr) M D Venkatesh, the recently appointed Vice Chancellor of MAHE Manipal.

He was speaking to media persons on Tuesday on the sidelines of his announcement about MAHE being recognised as the Institute of Eminence (IoE).

From the academic year 2020-21, students enrolling into the now-called Srishti Manipal Institute Of Art, Design And Technology will be bona fide students of MAHE. They will be awarded a degree by MAHE when they graduate.

The current students of Srishti (up to 2019-20), who are part of the Bengaluru Central University (now, Bengaluru City University), will graduate from BCU, said the top officials of MAHE.

MAHE already has a campus based in the city functioning out of Manipal Hospital, Bengaluru. While there is a need for expansion, there is just limited space there (at the Manipal Hospital campus), said Lt Gen Venkatesh. MAHE's upcoming 80-acre campus is in Yelahanka. Srishti school of design too will be relocated to the new campus by 2022.

Hebri Subhaskrishna Ballal, Pro Chancellor of Manipal University, said that till that time, Srishti school of design will be located in the premises that is taken on lease (in Bengaluru), along with other institutes.

Meanwhile, MAHE has set up a medical college at Jamshedpur, in a first private-private partnership with the Tata group. "We received permission from the erstwhile Medical Council of India for 150 admissions," said Lt. Gen. Venkatesh.

He said all the infrastructure was ready and the seat matrix was posted in the Medical Counselling Committee portal run by the Directorate General of Health Services, and small issues were being resolved with the UGC. "We hope we will be able to admit 150 students this academic year, of which 25 seats have been given to the Government of Jharkhand. Admission will be done through the NEET results," he said.

Rly police rescue minor 'kidnapped' from Bhopal

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

WITHIN five hours of getting an alert that a 16-year-old girl was missing from Kamal Nagar in Bhopal and was suspected to be taken by someone on a train to Bengaluru, the Railway Protection Force (RPF) and the Government Railway Police rescued her from the New Delhi-Bengaluru Festival Superfast Express when it neared Yelahanka.

A case of kidnapping under Section 363 of the IPC was registered by her parents on Sunday at a Bhopal police station and the RPF Zonal office at Jabalpur alerted the cops here. According to RPF sources, the girl, a Class 12 student, was convinced by her male classmate, who claims to be 17 years old, to leave the city with him. "It looks like she agreed to his plan," a top cop said.

Her parents had approached the police when they realised that she was missing. Following the alert received in Bengaluru around 1.30 pm on Monday, the RPF formed multiple search teams who checked trains entering the Bengaluru Division from North India.

"When we were checking Train no. 06528 while it was passing between Hindupur and Yelahanka, we found a young girl on seat number 38 of the S8 coach and the boy had a booking on seat number 40. The duo was made to alight at Yelahanka station around 6 pm and cops waiting at the platform took over from there," another cop said.

A cop said that the girl looked confused. "It appears as if she thought he would take her somewhere closer home. She did not imagine she would be brought as far as Bengaluru. A police team from Bhopal is on the way to escort them back," the cop said.

If the boy is found to be a minor as he has claimed, a different case applicable to juvenile delinquents will be booked, he added.

3 firemen sustain minor injuries

THREE firemen — Revannasiddappa, Sampathraj and Siddegowda — sustained minor injuries while fighting the blaze. "As barrels were exploding, the godown and an adjacent building were completely gutted and collapsed. Seven vehicles, including four cars parked close to the godown, were burnt while a furniture shop and a plastic unit next to the godown were also damaged," the police said.

Radhamma, who lives a few buildings away, said she was shocked to see huge flames and thick smoke and felt the heat even a few hundred metres away. Mani, owner of the furniture shop, said the fire had caused him a loss of several lakhs of rupees. The owner of Balaji Plastics, which was also gutted, suffered a loss of about Rs 45 lakh. The total loss is estimated to be around Rs 3 crore.

The Byatarayanapura police have booked the proprietors of the firm, Kamala Sethia and Sajjan Raj, both residents of Chamarajpet, under various sections of the Indian Penal Code and Explosive Substances Act.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (West) Sanjeev Patil said the duo had not obtained licence to store such highly inflammable chemicals. Both are absconding and efforts are on to nab them. Director General of Police, Fire & Emergency Services, Amar Kumar Pandey, and other senior officials monitored the operations.

BJP SWEEPS DUBBAKA BYPOLLS IN TELANGANA

Keenly contested byelection exposes chinks in TRS' armour

BJP activists celebrate the victory of M Raghunandan Rao from Dubbaka Assembly constituency in Hyderabad on Tuesday | R V K RAO

R PRIDHVI RAJ @Hyderabad

THE Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) victory and the Telangana Rashtra Samithi's (TRS) defeat in the Dubbaka byelection appear to be indicative of the changing patterns in the political kaleidoscope in Telangana. The outcome of the bypoll has also seemed to have driven yet another nail in the Congress' coffin as it lost its security deposit.

The keenly fought byelection exposed cracks in the TRS citadel as Dubbaka is in Siddipet, which is the home district of Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao, and the party's campaign was spearheaded by his nephew and Finance Minister T Harish Rao.

As the elections to two seats of the Telangana Legislative Council (Graduates) and the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation (GHMC) are also round the corner, there is enough reason for the TRS to worry on how it should rework its strategies to get back to being numero uno.

The defeat has come as a shocker to the pink party as it had not tasted reverses in any bypoll held after the formation of Telangana State in 2014. In fact, in the recent bypoll in Huzurnagar, vacated by TPCC president N Uttam Kumar Reddy after his election to Lok Sabha in 2019, the TRS won, confining the BJP to the fringes.

In the absence of any emotive issues, the TRS had banked on its welfare schemes to sail through the Dubbaka bypoll. Harish Rao had toured the constituency extensively after KCR set a target of getting a majority of one lakh votes for the TRS nominee. Though it had charismatic leaders, the anti-incumbency against the government had worked against the sitting MLA's widow S Sujatha, who could not match her BJP rival Raghunandan Rao.

BJD wrests Balasore Sadar seat from BJP

ENS @Bhubaneswar

THE victory march of the BJD continued with the party winning bypolls to both the Balasore Sadar and Tirtol Assembly constituencies. While the ruling BJD wrested the Balasore Sadar seat from the BJP, it retained Tirtol by registering the fourth consecutive win from the constituency. The Balasore Sadar seat, however, witnessed a tough fight between the BJD candidate Swarup Kumar Das and his BJP rival Manas Kumar Dutta. Das secured 84,097 votes and defeated Dutta by a margin of 13,352 votes. Dutta, son of deceased BJP MLA Madan Mohan Dutta, polled 70,746 votes.

In the Tirtol seat, BJD nominee Bijay Shankar Das, son of deceased MLA Bishnu Charan Das, won by a margin of 41,703 votes against his BJP rival Rajkishore Behera. While Das polled 88,310 votes, Behera got 46,607 votes. In both the seats, Congress nominees finished distant third. While Congress candidate in Balasore Sadar seat Mamata Kundu polled 4983 votes and forfeited her deposit, its nominee in Tirtol Himanshu Bhusan Mallick got 28,778 votes.

Explain how you will compensate kids over midday meals: HC to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TERMING the act of not providing midday meals to children from June 1 a serious lapse by the state, the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the authorities to explain in what manner and what time each student will be compensated.

IN THE HC

It directed the Secretary responsible for the implementation of the National Food Security Act in the state to file an affidavit in this regard.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Aravind Kumar passed the order after hearing a batch of public interest litigations in relation to issues that arose due to Covid-19.

"Considering the default, the state has to give an assurance by November 17," the bench ordered.

Recalling the court's concern over not providing midday meals to children up to the age of 14 years on the last date of hearing, the bench said that the state has filed the statement candidly admitting that it has not supplied meals after May 31 as Anganawadis and schools are closed due to Covid-19.

Recording the submission of Clifton Rozario, advocate representing the People's Union for Civil Liberties, that the children will have to be compensated considering the provisions of the Act and Midday Meal Rules, the bench said that such a lapse amounts to violation of the rights of the children under the Constitution.

The bench also directed the Secretary to give the steps taken to implement the provisions of the Act in relation to benefits to be provided to pregnant women and lactating mothers under the Integrated Child Development Scheme.

BJP HOLDS ITS CORE, WHILE OPPONENT, ALLY FIND FLANKS BREACHED

The teflon-coated hologram of Narendra Modi looming over the landscape is by now a fixture of our politics. The results in Bihar and in a set of by-elections across India—from Manipur to Karnataka—show that it stays undimmed. Flood, pestilence, exodus and economic misery notwithstanding. Within this static picture, some new milestones were within sight on Tuesday, even if they remain unattained.

The first real campaign helmed by young RJD scion Tejashwi Yadav on his own—a whirlwind of ecstatic rallies and media eulogies—nearly pulled off a stunner. But only nearly. Lalu Yadav's son did generate a huge uptick in vote share, but the promise goes somewhat unredeemed at the end. Why? Because the RJD seemed unable to expand beyond its Muslim-Yadav core, despite attempts by him to expand its vocabulary. To really succeed, he needed to win over non-Yadav blocs embedded within the NDA: EBCs, Dalits, Mahadalits. If residual loyalties to CM Nitish Kumar and vote-cutting by marginal players like the BSP impeded that reverse flow, the blame must attach largely to a weak Congress (the Left more than held its own). Practically non-existent on the ground, the GOP failed in the only utility it could have had: of buttressing Tejashwi's universal appeal with its own old umbrella image. As things stood, even Asaduddin Owaisi's MIM was able to slice off chunks of the Muslim vote, further straitening the MGB's catchment flows.

There was, infamously, another spoiler in the picture. Chirag Paswan, the other scion, did his bit to chop Nitish's JD(U) down to size. Was that scripted? We'll never know. Anyway, the BJP prospered. It held its core while both its opponent and ally found their flanks breached. The bypolls were an aggregation of holding operations; the Congress too did in Chhattisgarh what BSY and Jyotiraditya Scindia did in their fiefs. But in the game of perceptions, the BJP takes the day.

THE GOOD AND BAD OF BCCI WOMEN'S T20

The Women's T20 Challenge, which got over in Sharjah on Monday, is a good initiative by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI). Criticised for neglecting women's cricket, board officials deserve praise for conducting this event in the middle of a pandemic. That the women's matches were telecast live should help in popularising this version of the game, which needs sponsors and viewership. After being away from the limelight for a long time, India's women cricketers need this kind of attention. This will not make them as prominent as their male counterparts, but will get them some financial reward and visibility nonetheless.

However, there are lessons for the BCCI from this edition of the T20 Challenge. The timing was wrong, as it coincided with the Women's Big Bash League in Australia. It is the most prominent women's T20 league in the world and some Indians are regular participants. Having the T20 Challenge alongside it deprived them of a chance to earn. This also meant that many top players were missing in action in the UAE. Unless the best are involved, the tournament will not be a spectacle and its reach will be limited. The men's IPL is a runaway success because the who's who of international cricket plays in it. Unless the same is done for the women's version, it will remain short on star appeal and marketability. Then, a total of four matches is a good beginning, but too few to give players a fair run to display their talent. In its third year, the T20 Challenge remains a mini tournament, rather than a full-fledged event. Further, the players got less than a week to prepare, despite coming off a long period of inactivity. In contrast, the men were in the UAE three weeks in advance.

Perhaps, the BCCI was keener on just staging the T20 Challenge than organising it properly. Officials should ponder these points and address the shortcomings, so that the T20 Challenge becomes an independent event and not a sideshow. Resources are not a problem. It's a question of taking it seriously and giving it the treatment it deserves. Otherwise, the effort will not produce the desired results.

Much of Asia will be closely watching President-elect Biden's appointments to see if there will be a shift in the China policy of the US

ELECTION 2020 AND AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY

SANJAY PULIPAKA

Senior Fellow at the Delhi Policy Group

AMIT BANDRE

After a bitter campaign followed by a week of uncertainty, the US presidential election is reported to be complete. The vote count in the battleground states indicates that Democratic party candidate Joseph Biden will be the 46th President of the United States. At the time of writing this opinion, President Donald Trump was yet to concede, still placing bets on lawsuits to stall the verdict. It now appears that many in the Republican party leadership are not favourably disposed to joining the chorus about 'large-scale fraud' in the elections.

Accusations notwithstanding, the US elections highlighted the need for a review of certain aspects of the electoral process. The declaration of the election results was delayed due to the mail-in ballot mechanisms, which became a highly contentious issue. The large-scale use of mail-in ballots raises a few important questions. First, do mail-in ballots facilitate free expression and ensure secrecy of vote? A polling booth provides a watertight environment where the vulnerable can express their choice without fear. However, with mail-in ballots, voting may get contaminated by various factors such as the presence of an abusive spouse, an overbearing parent and other family dynamics. Second, can county and state governments define election procedures in a manner that results in delays or contentious national verdicts? States like Florida did usher in reforms to improve the transparency in counting processes after the infamous controversy during the presidential election in 2000. While the rights of the states to set their election procedures need not be diluted, the need to ensure some standardisation should be recognised. Given the likely prospect of delay in delivery and loss of ballots, the counting processes will be marked by anxieties, which is not good for the health of the polity. The concerns about mail-in ballots should not be dismissed casually, and at the same time, it is important not to taint the whole election process without clear evidence of electoral malpractice/malfeasance.

The election, amidst a pandemic, witnessed an impressive turnout, with over 66% of voters exercising their franchise. While Biden received more than 76 million votes, Trump also got over 71 million votes. Raging pandemic and associated economic challenges do not seem to have dented Trump's popularity among large sections of the population. The razor-thin margins of victory in various states for Biden and the less-than-satisfactory performance of the Democratic party in the elections for Senate as well as the House of Representatives is indicative of the deep political divide in the US. However, the fragmentation of political power across the parties may be a blessing in disguise as it might push important stakeholders to adopt more centrist positions. On the other hand, if the ideological extremism in both parties prevails, then the policy-making will resemble low-intensity trench warfare.

By choosing Kamala Harris as his running mate, Biden has demonstrated his commitment to professional competence and celebration of ethnic/racial diversity. In fact, Kamala Harris will be the first woman to become the US Vice President. Now, Biden will have to demonstrate political sagacity by constituting his team on metrics of ideological diversity and political inclusivity. The architecture of the new cabinet will also have an impact on the US foreign policy. If Biden retains Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer and/or Secretary of State Michael Richard Pompeo, as numerous responses to a tweet by Richard Rossow (India Chair at CSIS) wished for recently, then it would indicate a policy continuity towards China. In the past year, the Trump administration took a tough stance on Beijing by imposing trade tariffs, and Secretary Pompeo often criticised China's "virulent strain of communism".

Asian allies are hoping the process of restoring the 'soul of America' will also translate into a rejection of transactional approaches that focus on immediate gain, especially towards authoritarian nations like China

Over the years, the US policy towards China was premised on the notion that China could be socialised to conduct its foreign policy as per international norms and rules through sustained economic engagement. However, the experience has been to the contrary. It was China that made consistent efforts to socialise the rest of the world to accept its territorial assertions and trade practices. For all his unpredictable policies, it was Trump who initiated a series of coherent policy measures to counter Chinese tactics. Much of Asia will be closely watching President-elect Biden's appointments to see if there will be a shift in China policy.

On the other hand, during Trump's presidency, the US relationship with European allies deteriorated significantly on the question of sharing the financial burden of the collective security frameworks. Not surprisingly, there was a sigh of relief in many European capitals with Biden's victory. Further, his recent statement that Russia constituted the biggest threat to America was received favourably by some European allies.

However, the change in the office of the President is likely to have a significant impact on Washington's foreign policy towards the Middle East. The Trump administration, in the recent past, played an important role in facilitating the establishment of diplomatic relations between Israel and some Arab countries through a series of accords. These accords, along with the earlier US withdrawal from the Iran nuclear deal and imposition of sanctions on Tehran, tilted the balance of power in the region to Iran's disadvantage. The statement by an Iranian diplomat, that "at last the political life of a man [President Trump] who was spreading resentment is over", suggested there is anticipation in some quarters of Tehran that it may be relatively easy to work with the new administration. Biden will have to walk a very fine line in the Middle East to balance the interests of allies, sustaining the recent progress made and establishing regional peace.

While many big foreign policy decisions await Biden, it is likely that his administration's energies will be consumed by efforts to "heal America". Allies in Asia are hoping that the process of restoring the "soul of America" will also translate into a rejection of transactional approaches that focus on immediate gain, especially towards authoritarian countries like China.

THE DEMISE OF ADMINISTRATIVE MORALITY

K JAYAKUMAR

Former Kerala Chief Secretary & Ex-VC, Thunchath Ezhuthachan Malayalam Varsity

There is an unmistakable tension creeping into our political and social life. A tension that arises from a barrage of unseemly events, unprecedented responses, uneasy social polarisation and uncanny silence of civil society. Approved channels of consultation, accommodation and consensus seem to have been disabled. Our democracy, which has been bolstered by several institutions and benign precedents, seems to be losing the inner vibrancy exposed as it is to the ethos of arbitrariness and confrontation. In a federal polity like India with its rich diversity, the drying up of the internal lubricating mechanisms will have serious consequences, some early signals of which are already evident.

When different political dispensations are in power at the Centre and the states, some friction is inevitable. However, it is often eased by an administrative ethos evolved over decades of resource sharing and ideation at the bureaucratic and political levels. But when political considerations become an overbearing criterion in development administration and resource sharing, administrative morality becomes the first casualty. State governments have considerable authority on several subjects clearly demarcated in the Constitution. When the Centre, perhaps with some technical justification, overlooks the right of the states, and enacts legislations and adopts policies with far-reaching consequences, it is bound to create fissures and friction. This is amply demonstrated by the slew of legislative changes and policy shifts introduced by the Centre in the area of agriculture and marketing of farm products. It was a fait accompli for the states and naturally several, of course on political lines, reacted with counter-legislative measures. The same is the approach in the matter of the National Education Policy 2020. A similar style informs several administrative measures of the Centre, including some highly beneficial schemes. Had the Union government shown a bit more grace, state governments would have been willing partners in many such schemes. After all, the Centre has no territory to implement the schemes other than the states!

Apart from development schemes and economic policies, the Centre-states rift is getting even more pronounced in the area of investigation into criminal acts and violation of laws and rules over which Central investigating agencies have mandate. While agencies like the ED, NIA, Customs, Narcotics Bureau and CBI have the authority and acumen to take up investigation anywhere in the country, state governments are normally taken along to facilitate the probe. There are healthy conventions in place by which basic courtesies are exchanged without compromising the impartiality of investigation. When such civil decorum is violated, state governments will naturally invoke whatever authority they have to regulate the free access of Central agencies. Many governments that have given general consent to the CBI to take up investigations in their states without prior permission have revoked it.

Tensions between the Centre and states can be seen in development schemes and economic policies. The rift is also becoming visible now in the area of probes into criminal acts and violation of laws over which Central investigating agencies have mandate

Such a situation has both ethical and practical consequences. Making the Central laws more rigorous is the easy but dangerous temptation, which is not a solution but a cure worse than the malady. After all, the purpose of criminal investigation is to find the culprits and punish the guilty. If that process becomes a hurdle race, it is the delivery of justice that ultimately gets delayed or derailed. This sudden spate of reactions from state governments have thrown up cardinal issues relating to criminal investigations. The Centre has to recalibrate the systems of mutual support and respect while assigning Central agencies to the states. The perception that extraneous considerations and selective targeting play a role in initiating investigations can do enormous damage to Central investigation agencies that have earned a reputation for professional competence. It will be a pity and a grievous loss if the political slugfest eventually sullies the professional integrity of these national agencies.

The Union government should be suave enough to guard against any action that would invite counter-action from state governments. As long as effective criminal investigation and punitive action against the guilty is the objective, the Centre and states should have no difficulty to be on the same page. The logic of common good applies to policies, programmes and seminal legislations governing economic development as well. Views and counter-views are the very stuff of democracy. Robust institutions with professional autonomy or institutionalised consultative mechanisms would act as cushion and help avoid confrontation.

Institutions have relevance only when dissenting voices are not treated as threats and accommodation is not considered as surrender. Constant confrontation is a prescription for collective weakening, while cooperative consultation nourishes a democratic polity. Institutional autonomy and consultative mechanisms are bound to weaken and wither when unilateral decision-making is hailed as panacea and blessing. Any decision can be justified as long as the citizens are able to discover the preponderance of moral justification over political expediency. Strengthening institutions that would make it difficult to take morally indefensible decisions is what Indian democracy pines for today. Bypassing, weakening, discrediting or demolishing existing institutions may be convenient in the short term, but it will only force the citizens to conclude like Hamlet, 'The time is out of joint'.

Something to cheer about

With Joe Biden set to enter the Oval Office in January, the protests of President Donald Trump notwithstanding, lakhs of Indians who head to the US every year for studies and employment may have something to cheer about. Only the future will tell what line Biden will take in regard to the Indian subcontinent.

R Sampath, Chennai

Covid failure hurt Trump

One of the major reasons for Trump's defeat in the US elections was his failure to contain the coronavirus. This apart, the negative feelings towards Trump were overwhelming among a majority of voters.

R Sivakumar, Chennai

Remember their sacrifice

Is the Biden-Harris win a cause for so much euphoria? Are we naive to believe that Kamala being an Indian American is going to help our nation? Instead, we should spare serious thought to the sacrifice of our security forces a few days ago while foiling terror infiltration in J&K.

B Kailash Shankar, Thiruvananthapuram

Stability under Biden

Trump considered tariffs a diplomatic weapon, which proved to be wrong and affected the world economy. (Less conflict, but US pressure to open up trade will persist, Nov 10). Under Biden, the US can provide stability in global trade.

Vinod Narayanan, Thiruvananthapuram

Minorities and Trump

According to exit polls, Trump's support actually rose among African Americans. Increased backing from Latinos helped him win Florida comfortably. The main group whose support for Trump has decreased? White men! This cost him the heavily white swing states of Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, etc.

K Rajagopal, Bengaluru

Much-needed change

Under Trump, international protocol was ignored. (Will Biden's US cease to a disrupter of global processes? Nov 10). The world community was helplessly waiting for this much-needed change.

A M Chakravarty, Hyderabad

Many exit polls incorrect

Many exit poll results splashed by TV channels have yet again proved to be wrong. In spite of all the hype, the RJD has underperformed. Through the LJP, the BJP has cleverly managed to eat into the votes of the JD(U). The LJP's seats can serve as a buffer in case of a hung verdict.

N Nagarajan, Secunderabad

Nitish and the BJP

While the BJP has done well in Bihar, a repeat of Maharashtra cannot be ruled out. One hopes Nitish doesn't join hands with the Mahagathbandhan as his last stint in politics should be honourable. But this also depends on the BJP.

Sravana Ramachandran, Chennai

High drama in Bihar

While Bihar is no longer as backward, the quantum of development under Nitish Kumar does not seem to be enough. Whichever alliance is victorious, horse-trading and high drama could likely be witnessed before government formation.

Sathyam N, Tiruchanur

Suppression of FoE

Arnab Goswami, in his crusade against Maharashtra's government over the Sushant Singh Rajput case, has perhaps crossed a Lakshman Rekha. But reopening a case closed in 2018 and arresting him now smacks of vendetta and is a case of suppression of freedom of expression.

TEJASHWI'S SOCIAL ENGINEERING FAILS TO CLICK

Experts say RJD leader seems to have miscalculated the Muslim-Yadav arithmetic in attempt to widen party's caste influence among other sections by giving tickets to them; 'social engineering' that he sought to inject into ticket distribution had a limited success, but despite losing electorally, he has won politically

MUKESH RANJAN @Muzaffarpur

IN the run-up to the polls, Tejashwi Yadav had drawn huge crowds to his rallies – as many as 251 — unsettling his opponents to an extent that his party as well the Grand Alliance believed they were within the striking distance of a unique victory. It'd now appear that the RJD could not translate that crowd support entirely into votes.

That plus 'social engineering' that he sought to inject into ticket distribution seems to have had a limited success. Take a look at the larger MY (Muslim-Yadav) matrix: Of the 144 candidates the RJD fielded, only 58, or 40%, were Yadavs. In 2015, out of 101 seats contested, 65 were Yadavs, or 64% belonging to that community. Similarly, the RJD this time fielded 17 Muslim candidates, down from 21 in the last polls.

Analysts believe that the Yadav votes got divided after RJD fielded upper caste candidates such as the Brahmans and Bhumihars, which harmed the party. "The social engineering attempted by RJD this time has led to division in Yadav votes," says political observer Law Kumar Mishra. "It harmed the RJD more in the third phase, while it had little impact in the first and second phase of polling," he said.

A RJD supporter flashes victory sign during the counting of votes for the Bihar Assembly polls in Patna on Tuesday | PTI

Economist Naval Kishore Chaudhary, however, believes that despite all odds, Tejashwi has established himself as a leader in Bihar even though he is unlikely to become the CM.

"Tejashwi might have lost electorally, but he has won politically," says Chaudhary.

"He seems to have miscalculated the MY arithmetic in his attempt to widen the party's caste influence among other sections by giving tickets to them," said Chaudhary.

He says three factors play a major role in polls: the leadership quality in which Nitish has no match, past-performance, in which he also had an edge over Tejashwi, who is carrying the legacy of his father and mother, and finally, caste or religion, which Nitish Kumar handled very smartly by taking upper caste people and BJP along with him.

Many say that crowds coming to a rally cannot be the only barometer of a leader's popularity. "Most of those who came to Tejashwi's rallies were teenagers and minors, who were more anxious to see him alight from the chopper," said a retired sugar mill employee Ashok Sahi of Kamtaul village under Kurhandi Assembly seat in Muzaffarpur. Shambhu Tiwary, a wildlife activist-cum-social researcher of Patna, said crowd's behaviour cannot be trusted. "Tejashwi drew crowds mostly from MY section. His promise of 10 lakh jobs to the youth was countered effectively by NDA leaders who dubbed it as impractical. In a state facing a severe financial crunch, promises do matter, but what matters more is the motive behind them," he said.

As for the turnout at rallies, he said Bihar saw a similar situation in 2015 when the BJP failed to come to power despite well-attended rallies of PM Modi. Mukesh Kumar of Kanti Assembly seat in Muzaffarpur said as Tejashwi went on making promises, people became convinced that he was getting nervous about his party's performance. Everyone knows there is a difference between creating job opportunities and providing jobs," said Mukesh.

Tejashwi tried to 'rectify' the RJD's negative image as projected by the party's adversaries about his parents – former CMs Lalu Prasad and Rabri Devi. He avoided their photos on posters and banners during the campaign which does not seem to have gone down well with staunch RJD supporters.

Wrong to write off Left, says Yechury as Red flag flies high

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Left parties, which fared poorly in the past polls, made its significant mark in the Bihar Assembly elections, with their candidates winning five seats and leading in 11 others, according to the Election Commission (EC).

In an alliance with the RJD, the three Left parties were given 29 seats by Tejashwi Yadav, despite reluctance from the members of the parties.

According to the latest trends, CPI(ML) has won nine of the 19 seats and is leading in three seats. The CPI(M), which competed on four seats, has won two seats, and the CPI, which contested in six seats, has won one seat and leading in two others.

With the win in nine seats and leads in three others, the CPI(ML) hopes to be the biggest gainer in the Grand Alliance.

In the 2015 assembly election, the CPI(ML) had bagged three seats. It had won seven seats in the 2005 polls. The party secured six seats in the 2000 election and in 2010, it had failed to get any seat.

CPI(M) general secretary Sitaram Yechury warned naysayers against writing them off, saying had they been given more seats, they would have notched up higher numbers in the elections. "We were clear from the beginning that we have to defeat the BJP. Our strike rate in Bihar is 80 per cent and if we had been given more seats, we would have contributed more to the Gathbandhan tally. Our alliance with the RJD and Congress combined issues of social justice with that of economic justice. One cannot be achieved without the other," Yechury said.

The CPI(ML)'s social base among Mahadalits and Yadavs also helped them in getting numbers.

BIHAR 2020 DECIDE

Owaisi's AIMIM wins five seats

Making a dent in RJD-Congress vote bank, the AIMIM, which has been trying to carve out space in the Muslim-dominated Seemanchal, won five seats while counting of votes was still underway. The party, so far, has won Amour, Kochadhaman, Jokihat, Baisi and Bahadurgunj seats, where it had fielded Akhtarul Iman, Muhammed Izhar Asfi, Shahnawaz Alam, Syed Ruknuddin, and Azhar Nayeemi respectively.

Cong's Udit Raj questions EVM

After the NDA took an initial lead from the Grand Alliance, Congress leader Udit Raj raised questions on the reliability of EVMs asking why they cannot be hacked if satellites can be controlled from the earth. "If the direction of satellites to Mars and Moon can be controlled from the earth, then why can't EVM be hacked," Udit Raj tweeted. "If elections were held in America with EVMs, could Trump have lost," he asked.

Close calls keep parties on edge

Slender margin of votes between winning and runner-up candidates on at least 20 seats kept the parties on edge till late evening. At around 8 pm, there were over 20 seats where the margin was less than 1,000. In Arrah, BJP's Amrendra Pratap Singh was ahead of the CPI (ML)'s Quyamuddin Ansari only by 121 votes. Similarly, Suryakant Paswan of the CPI was leading with a margin of 777 votes at Bakhri seat.

Nadda steadies BJP with poll wins

With BJP chief J P Nadda facing a rout in Delhi in the beginning of his stint, he may find comforts in the saffron outfit improving the strength in Bihar, while getting back on the winning momentum in the by-elections, particularly in Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat and Uttar Pradesh. The BJP went into the Bihar Assembly elections with a string of electoral reversals in states, which included Jharkhand and Delhi most recently.

JD-U supporters celebrate in Patna as the NDA was leading in the Bihar polls | PTI

Chirag's wicked game dents Nitish's image

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

AS the BJP appeared set to leave its ally JD-U far behind in the seat tally in the Bihar Assembly elections and LJP chief Chirag Paswan succeeded in queering the pitch for the JD-U on more than 35 seats, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's popularity has taken a dip by a great extent.

In the 2015 Assembly polls, the JD-U had won a total of 71 seats in alliance with the RJD, largely because of the popularity of Kumar, also known as 'Sushasan Babu'. But this time, despite hectic campaigning against Tejashwai's RJD by PM Narendra Modi, JDU till managed to bag only 34 seats, according to the last updates by the Election Commission till Tuesday midnight.

Local poll observers said the JDU's low numbers clearly indicate that Kumar's popularity is waning among the voters, especially Dalits.

Raj Kumar, a Patna-based poll analyst, said the rampant corruption in government departments, anger against the poor implementation of projects and lack of communication between the CM and the common man have damaged Kumar's popularity.

Chirag's role as a spoilsport was much on the lines of his late father Ram Vilas Paswan's tactic in 2005 against the RJD. The LJP in 2005 had helped the NDA in damaging the Lalu Prasad-led RJD prospects by fielding candidates on 204 seats out of 243. By doing so, the LJP candidates had also got more than 10% of votes from the RJD's traditional Dalit vote bank.

Cong flop show spoils GA's chances

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

EVEN as Tejashwi Yadav-led Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) fought hard to emerge as the single-largest party in the Bihar polls, another poor show by its ally Congress spoiled Mahagathbandhan's chances of reaching the magic figure of 122 seats in 243-member Assembly on Tuesday.

Till the last updates, the grand old party was struggling to match up even to its 2015 tally of 27 seats. According to the Election Commission data, the Congress was set to win 20 of the 70 seats it has contested, while its allies Left parties were leading on 18 out of their stipulated 29 seats.

With the trends showing another setback for the Congress, many in the Grand Alliance said if Tejashwi had not given in to the Congress demand and part with a generous 70, the alliance could have done better.

After the seat distribution of the Grand Alliance, many Congress leaders had flagged that some of the seats were dominated by the upper caste and they will be in a direct fight against the BJP. The party's chances would have been better had they contested against the JD(U).

> The party had delayed in announcing its candidates, denied tickets to seniors and parachuted Luv Sinha and Subhashini Yadav
>
> Senior Congress leader in Bihar

A senior Congress leader in Bihar said the party had also delayed in announcing its candidates, alleging that many senior leaders were denied tickets and parachuted Luv Sinha, son of actor-turned-politician Shatrughan Sinha, and Subhashini Yadav, daughter of Sharad Yadav.

Moreover, last-minute plannings, less effort to expand the party's reach, and appointments at district and state-level committees days before the elections had further dented the party's revival hopes.

Anguished migrants voted against Nitish: Experts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Muzaffarpur

EVEN though the NDA succeeded in fetching a sizeable number of seats in the Assembly polls, negligence of migrant workers striving to return to their homes in Bihar after the Covid-19 lockdown was imposed had damaged it to such an extent that it lost many of the seats in the areas which had witnessed a large inflow of labourers.

Locals alleged that initially, CM Nitish Kumar left the migrants unattended and pulled up its socks only after the BJP became active following the pressure. Political experts said due to the ignorance, the NDA had to lose seats in Shahbad and Bhojpur belts.

Locals watch the election results on a screen in Patna | PTI

"The way migrants were treated by the Nitish government, they definitely didn't take lightly in the Bihar polls," said political analyst Law Kumar Mishra. The NDA also performed badly in Buxar, Rohtas, Jahanabad, Ramgarh, Mohania and other bordering districts like Gaya, Aurangabad, Sheikhpura and Muzaffarpur, he added.

People in some of the backward districts like Muzaffarpur were also of the the view that Kumar failed on the migrants issue. "Due to the failure of Nitish Kumar in bringing back the migrants, it became a key issue in the polls which was also encashed by the opposition," said Ashok Sahi, a resident of Kamtaul village in Muzaffarpur.

Scindia proves his clout, BJP gets majority in MP

Scindia proves his worth in gold, wipes out Congress in byelection

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

JYOTIRADITYA Scindia on Monday proved his clout in Madhya Pradesh politics and strengthened his credentials within the BJP, as the party attained majority on its own in the 230-member Assembly winning or leading in the 19 out of the 28 seats in by-elections.

The opposition Congress was ahead in only nine seats. The BSP drew a blank, despite leading on two seats during the day.

The BJP had 107 seats with support of seven MLAs in the Assembly. With today's results, the party is assured of going past the simple majority figure of 116, shattering all hopes of the Kamal Nath-led Congress returning to power in the state.

> We accept the mandate. We made every effort to reach out to voters. I also thank all voters.. I hope that government will take care of farmers, provide jobs to youth
>
> Kamal Nath, Congress leader

Of the 16 seats belonging to the Scindia-dominated Gwalior-Chambal region, the BJP won eight and was leading in another constituency. The Congress followed a close second.

The BJP has won six of the seven seats of the Malwa-Nimar region, both in Bundelkhand region, one out of the two seats of central MP and the lone seat of the Mahakoshal region. Out of these 19 winning/leading BJP candidates, 13 are Scindia loyalists.

Of the 12 ministers in the fray, nine either won or were leading, while three, including Scindia loyalist Imarti Devi (Dabra) and Giriraj Dandotiya (Dimani), besides Aidal Singh Kansana (Sumaoli) had either lost or were trailing.

Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan termed it as the victory of development-centric politics of BJP.

Wrestler bites dust

BJP candidate and Olympian wrestler Yogeshwar Dutt lost the bypoll at Baroda seat in Haryana. Congress candidate Indu Raj Narwal won by more than 10,000 votes. This is the second time that the wrestler has lost the polls from this seat after 2019.

Cong wins in C'garh

In Marwahi, Dr K K Dhruw of the Congress defeated his nearest rival Dr Gambhir Singh of the BJP by a margin of 38,197 votes. For the first time in 20 years, no member from the Ajit Jogi family nor anyone from the Janta Congress Chhattisgarh-J was in the Marwahi poll fray.

In UP, Yogi smashes a six, SP retains one

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

IN a crucial bypoll battle which was being construed as the referendum on the Yogi Adityanath government, the ruling BJP came out with a convincing win as it retained six of the seven seats on Tuesday.

The lone seat went to the Samajwadi Party, which retained Malhani where its candidate Lucky Yadav registered victory with a margin of 4,632 votes over independent candidate Dhananjay Singh. The BSP and the Congress drew a blank.

Attributing the party success to team work, BJP cadre's diligence and dynamic leadership of PM Modi, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath summed up the party performance in bypolls and Bihar by saying: "Modi hai to mumkin hai."

"I congratulate the BJP for the stellar performance under the leadership of PM Modi and JP Nadda. ... The way PM Modi has led India internationally and worked for the welfare of all sections including women and farmers, has been awarded by the people's approval in the form of votes," said CM Yogi.

For women voters, Nitish is still safest bet

MUKESH RANJAN & PUSHKAR BANAKAR @ Darbhanga/ New Delhi

WOMEN voters, the most loyal vote bank of Nitish Kumar have once again voted silently in large numbers and seemed to have shored up the NDA numbers.

According to official data, the state witnessed an overall polling of 57.05% while female turnout was recorded as 59.7% as against 54.7% of male turnout. Out of 38 districts, 23 reported higher voter turnout of women than that of men.

Nitish has nurtured this vote bank cautiously since he came to power for the first time in 2005 after the 15-year RJD rule during which, he claims crime against women were at the peak. He not only introduced free cycle programme for schoolgirls in his first stint, but also introduced 50% quota for women in panchayat and municipal bodies.

In his second term, he introduced financial assistance scheme for Class XII girl students and 50% reservation for women in government jobs. In 2016, Kumar played a masterstroke by banning alcohol.

"Welfare schemes like Ujjwala yojana, 50 per cent reservation for the women in Panchayat elections and government jobs, distribution of by-cycles for school girls really helped to empower women in rural areas," said political analyst Law Kumar Mishra.

Political analyst Nilanjan Mukhopadhyay said it seems the women voters have shored up NDA's electoral prospects. Their support for Nitish Kumar in Bihar has also been increased by the personal appeal of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. But VMR founder Jai Mrug disagreed. "I am not sure...some women were equally unhappy with Nitish over prohibition as it led to extortion by police. They would not have played as much as the extremely backward castes; the latter were impacted directly by the lockdown."

SMALL PLAYERS FLATTER TO DECEIVE

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

IT was a complete washout for most of the regional and smaller parties, including the Rashtriya Lok Samata Party (RLSP), Jan Adhikar Party (JAP), Samajwadi Janata Dal (Secular), Suhjeldev Bharatiya Samaj Party, Janvadi Socialist, Azad Samaj Party, Social Democratic Party, Bahujan Mukti Party and the Plurals Party.

The Upendra Kushwaha-led RLSP, which had forged the Grand Democratic Secular Alliance with Asaduddin Owaisi's AIMIM, failed to open its account even as Owaisi's party managed to win five seats in Seemanchal.

Pappu Yadav's JAP, which too had forged the Progressive Democratic Alliance with a few other parties, including Chandrasekhar Azad's Bhim Army, also scored a duck. Yadav himself lost from Madhepura.

Meera Singh, a Patna-based educationist and poll analyst, said that "political awareness has increased to such an extent" that the people now keep in mind the victory prospect of a party and the candidates' performance before voting.

DM Diwakar, former director of AN Sinha Institute of Social Study, said with the rising political consciousness at the grassroots level, the success rate of smaller parties is dipping.

Only the AIMIM emerged as a major factor in Seemanchal. "It dented the RJD's vote bank, with Owaisi raising the CAA-NRC bogey and polarizsng minority voters," said Md Hooda, a retired university teacher. Local poll observers said the AIMIM got Dalit votes, too.

'Will take call on extending support to GA'

All India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen, which appeared set to win five Muslim-dominated seats in the Bihar assembly polls, will take a call onextending support to the RJD-led Mahagathbandhan once the final results were declared, party's chief Asaduddin Owaisi said here on Tuesday. Asked once the final results are out and if there will be a need whether AIMIM will support RJD, the Hyderabad MP told reporters here counting was still going on and the final results are yet to be declared. "I would be able to answer once the results are out. Why should I speculate...when the final results are out then a decision will be taken," Owaisi said.

Jungle raj tag sits heavy on Tejashwi

MUKESH RANJAN @ Muzaffarpur

THE past caught up with the RJD and Tejashwi Yadav. Despite Tejashwi trying his best to relegate any reminder of his parents' rule, the spectre of 'jungle raj' prevailed as a burning issue in Bihar polls.

The NDA repeatedly targeted Tejashwi with even PM Narendra Modi reminding the voters of the 15-year "dark" RJD rule and calling Tejashwi the "jungle raj ka yuvraj."

Analysts feel that the crowds that Tejashwi attract did not seem to translate into votes. "Tejaswi made an attempt to play the inclusive game that Mayawati did in 2007 when she said, 'I belong to a Sarvasamaj Party and not Bahujan Samaj Party'. However, that needs a lot of political acumen and hard work. Tejaswi's call seemed more of an ad-hoc planning. He would have likely succeeded had the depth of planning been better," Voters-mood Research founder Jai Mrug said.

Political analyst Nilanjan Mukhopadhyay echoed Mrug's views. "Tejaswi has definitely become an important factor for the future of Bihar politics. But he has not been able to completely erase the stigma of Lalu. On the youth being behind Tejashwi but it not really translating into votes, it is typical of Bihar's politics. In 2015, Modi drew huge crowds but it did not translate into votes. There is a bit of a curiosity factor in the elections."

BIHAR 2020 DECIDE

Vote counting at snail's pace

Counting of votes for the Bihar Assembly elections continued till late night. The poll panel said to ensure social distancing norms put in place due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it had increased the number of polling stations from nearly 65,000 in 2015 to 1.06 lakh this year. More voting machines were also used. Deputy Election Commissioner Chandra Bhushan said the poll panel has not noticed any glitch so far.

BJP thanks Lord Ram for show

The mood at BJP office located just a few hundred metres from the headquarters of JD(U), initially somber, turned upbeat soon after the end of first round of counting showed the party emerging as bigger than its ally. Workers started reciting Hanuman Chalisa and shouting 'Jai Sri Ram'. "Today is the day of Lord Hanuman. How can he let the party chanting the name of Lord Ram be defeated?" said an elated party worker.

Posters change with poll result

All the JD (U) posters, which were put up showing only Nitish Kumar, were removed with new slogans like 'No confusion, Great Combination'. It gave the message that the double engine government has again created a history in Bihar. This was in sharp contrast in the afternoon hours, when there were only posters carrying the photo of Nitish with a slogan 'Jisr Jana hai Parkha hai usi ko chunana hai'

Sushant's kin on course to victory

Bollywood actor Sushant Singh Rajput's cousin and BJP MLA Neeraj Kumar Singh Bablu is moving towards victory from Chhatapur in Bihar's Supaul district. Bablu holds a lead of over 13,000 votes over RJD's Vipin Kumar Singh. It will be his fourth consecutive victory from the Chhatapur seat if he wins the elections. As per poll trends, Bablu currently leads with 79,905 votes against Singh who is trailing behind with 66,289 votes.

SC to hear Arnab's plea today, Dave lodges protest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi/Mumbai

A day after the Bombay High Court refused to provide him relief, Republic TV editor Arnab Goswami approached the apex court for interim bail in an abetment to suicide case.

Justices DY Chandrachud and Indira Banerjee will hear the plea on Wednesday.

But a row broke out as Supreme Court Bar Association president Dushyant Dave wrote a letter to the SC secretary general lodging 'strong protest' on 'selective listing' of Goswami's interim bail plea before a vacation bench.

'The serious issue here is selective listing of matters that the registry under your leadership is indulging in for last eight months during COVID pandemic. While thousands remain in jails, languishing for long periods while their matters filed before the Supreme Court are not getting listed for weeks and months, it is, to say the least, deeply disturbing as to how and why every time Goswami approaches the Supreme Court, his matter gets listed instantly," Dave wrote.

The senior advocate also clarified that he has nothing personal against Goswami.

The Republic TV editor's plea against the Bombay High Court order was filed On November 10, it got instant diary number, though not final, and it is listed for November 11, he said.

"This is a gross abuse of administrative power, whosoever has exercised it on administrative side. It gives an impression that clients represented by certain lawyers are getting special treatment, which does not speak well of the great institution, that the Supreme Court is," Dave said.

Goswami was arrested and sent to 14-day judicial custody on November 4 in connection with the death of interior designer Anvay Naik and his mother.

'Not right to raise bilateral issues in SCO'

PUSHKAR BANAKAR @ New Delhi

PM Narendra Modi on Tuesday virtually addressed the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) heads of state meeting in which he called for countries to respect each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity. "India has strong cultural and historical ties with SCO countries. Respecting one another's sovereignty, territorial integrity should be a basic principle while enhancing connectivity," Modi said.

This was the first time that Modi shared stage with Chinese President Xi Jinping since the June 15 face-off between Indian and Chinese troops at Galwan Valley in Ladakh.

In an apparent reference to Pakistan, Modi said that attempts were being made by some states repeatedly to bring bilateral issues on the platform and hindering with the SCO's agenda. "It is unfortunate that repeated attempts are being made to unnecessarily bring bilateral issues into the SCO agenda, which violate the SCO Charter and Shanghai Spirit. Such efforts are contrary to the spirit of consensus and cooperation that defines SCO," he said in the presence of Pakistan PM Imran Khan.

Team to take stock of man-elephant conflict

A Central government delegation headed by the national coordinator of Elephant Cell will take stock of human-elephant conflict in Uttarakhand on a four-day visit from Thursday. A letter to the chief wildlife warden from the MoEF mentioned that the officials will visit "Uttarakhand for matters related to Elephant Reserves in the state and take into account the areas of Uttarakhand affected with human-elephant conflict." Along with the elephant population, the man-elephant conflict has also increased in the state. In June, the jumbo population in the state had reached 2,026. In 2012, there were 1,559 elephants.

Dharchula region susceptible to quakes

Scientists at Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology have noted large concentrations of micro and moderate earthquakes in Dharchula region and Kumaon Himalaya due to stress. In collaboration with the Centre, they have established a seismological network of 15 broadband seismological stations along the Kali River valley to investigate the subsurface configuration and causes of frequently felt earthquakes in the Kumaon region. They revealed that these large 'concentrations' of earthquakes have chances to result in release of stress building up in the Himalayan region.

GOP backs Don in refusal to concede, Barr allows probes into 'voter fraud'

Top GOPer Mitch McConnell, who calls himself Grim Reaper, gives cover to lame duck prez

WASHINGTON

THE Trump administration threw the presidential transition into tumult, with President Donald Trump blocking government officials from cooperating with President-elect Joe Biden's team and Attorney General William Barr authorizing the Justice Department to probe unsubstantiated allegations of voter fraud.

Some Republicans, including Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, rallied behind Trump's efforts to fight the election results. Few in the GOP acknowledged Biden's victory or condemned Trump's other concerning move on Monday: his firing of Defense Secretary Mark Esper.

The developments cast doubt on whether the nation would witness the same kind of smooth transition of power that has long anchored its democracy. The Electoral College is slated to formally confirm Biden's victory on Dec. 14, and the Democrat will be sworn into office in late January.

On Monday, Barr authorized US attorneys to probe "substantial" allegations of voter irregularities and election fraud, though no widespread instances of that type of trouble in the 2020 election exist. In fact, election officials from both political parties have publicly stated that voting went well and international observers also said there were no serious irregularities.

Biden campaign lawyer Bob Bauer said Barr's memorandum authorizing investigations "will only fuel the 'specious, speculative, fanciful or farfetched claims' he professes to guard against."

Biden pressed forward with plans to build out his administration, assembling a team of experts to face the surging pandemic. But the federal agency that needs to greenlight the beginnings of the transition of power held off on taking that step. And the White House moved to crack down on those not deemed sufficiently loyal as Trump continued to refuse to concede the race.

Trump remained out of sight at the White House, with conversations ongoing about how the defeated president would spend the coming days and weeks as he challenged the people's verdict. Trump is not expected to formally concede but is likely to grudgingly vacate the White House at the end of his term, according to several people around him.

Also being discussed: the possibility of more campaign-style rallies as he tries to keep his supporters fired up. The president was given cover to keep fighting by McConnell, seen by many in the GOP as the one who may eventually need to nudge Trump to the exit. "Our institutions are actually built for this," McConnell said on Monday. "We have the system in place to consider concerns and President Trump is 100% within his rights to look into allegations of irregularities and weigh his legal options."

DOJ's voter fraud investigator quits in protest

US media reported that the head of the Justice Department's Election Crimes Branch, which oversees investigations into voter fraud, resigned following Barr's order. The branch director, Richard Pilger, reportedly handed in his resignation within hours of Barr's authorisation. In an email to colleagues about Barr's order, Pilger said, "Having familiarized myself with the new policy and its ramifications... I must regretfully resign from my role," The New York Times reported.

Transition to second Trump admin will be smooth: Pompeo

WASHINGTON

US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo on Tuesday promised the world a "smooth transition" after US elections but refused to recognize President-elect Joe Biden's victory, saying Donald Trump will remain in power.

"There will be a smooth transition to a second Trump administration," Pompeo said in an at times testy news conference when asked about contact with the Biden team.

"The world should have every confidence that the transition necessary to make sure that the State Department is functional today... with the president who is in office on January 20 a minute after noon will be successful," he said. Neither the State Department nor Pompeo has offered a clarification on the remark yet.

Almost all US allies have congratulated Biden.

Army suspends troops over abduction of cop

Pakistan's military Tuesday announced the suspension of a number of intelligence officers and troops accused by opposition leaders last month of abducting a provincial police chief to pressure him to arrest the son-in-law of exiled former PM Nawaz Sharif. The unusual action by the military comes three weeks after Sharif's son-in-law, Mohammad Safdar, was briefly detained after opposition parties held a rally in Karachi against PM Khan. Safdar, a retired army captain who is also an opposition politician, was taken from a hotel room, where he was staying with his wife. The arrest came after he visited the mausoleum of Mohammad Ali Jinnah. In Tuesday's statement, the military did not acknowledge Mehar's abduction saying only that the troops and intelligence officers were reacting to the "desecration" of the Jinnah tomb.

460 police infected, 3,000 in quarantine amid virus surge

About 460 Sri Lankan police have been infected with the coronavirus and 3,000 others have been quarantined amid a surge in cases in the capital and its suburbs. Police spokesman Ajith Rohana announced the figures on Tuesday. Health authorities have linked the police officers' infections to a cluster centered at the country's main fish market near Colombo. Sri Lanka has experienced a surge in cases since last month when two new clusters emerged, one centered at a garment factory and other at the fish market. Confirmed cases from the two clusters have grown into 10,807.

Firebrand cleric returns from 3-year Saudi exile

Tens of thousands of followers of a firebrand cleric joyfully welcomed him at an Indonesian airport on Tuesday as he returned home from a 3-year exile in Saudi Arabia after criminal charges including a pornography case were dropped. The supporters, waving banners and placards, erupted with joy when they saw Rizieq Shihab, leader of the Islamic Defenders Front (IDF), and his family leave the immigration area at the airport. Wearing a white robe, turban and face mask, Shihab stood up in the sunroof of a car and waved as his motorcade struggled to pass through the thousands of followers chanting "God is Great" who filled the road leading from Jakarta's Soekarno-Hatta airport. Police dropped the charges last year due to weak evidence. IDF seeks to apply Sharia law in Indonesia.

EU accuses Amazon of using customer data to compete with sellers

LONDON

EUROPEAN UNION regulators filed antitrust charges against Amazon, accusing the company of using its access to data to gain an unfair advantage over merchants using its platform.

The EU's executive Commission, the bloc's top antitrust enforcer, issued the charges after it started looking into the company two years ago. Adding to Amazon's regulatory headaches, the EU also opened a second investigation into whether the company favors product offers and merchants that use its own logistics and delivery system.

EU's Executive Vice-President Margrethe Vestager | AP

It's the latest effort by Executive Vice President Margrethe Vestager, the EU commissioner in charge of competition issues, to curb Big Tech. She has slapped Google with antitrust fines totaling nearly $10 billion and opened twin antitrust investigations this summer into Apple. The US has started taking a tougher line as well, suing Google this year for abusing its dominance in online search and advertising.

EU officials focused on the company's dual role as a marketplace and retailer.

The commission took issue with Amazon's systematic use of business data that it has exclusive access to, allowing it to avoid the normal risks of competition and leverage its dominance for e-commerce services in France and Germany.

Investigators analysed data of 80 million transactions and 100 million products on Amazon's site. Vestager said they found that "very granular, real time business data" on third-party product listings and transactions was fed into algorithms for Amazon's retail business that decide which new products to launch, their price and supplier. AP

Lockdown picked as word of the year: Collins

LONDON

COLLINS Dictionary said on Tuesday that "lockdown" is its Word of The Year in 2020 following a dramatic increase in usage during the spread of Covid-19.

Lexicographers said they picked the word because it had become synonymous with the experience of populations across the world as governments look to curb the coronavirus pandemic.

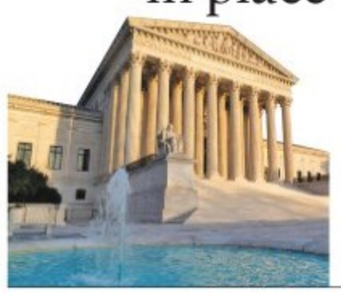
"It is a unifying experience for billions of people across the world, who have had collectively to play their part in combating the spread of Covid-19," publishers Harper Collins said.

Collins registered more than a quarter of a million usages of "lockdown" during 2020, against only 4,000 the previous year.

Because of the way the pandemic has affected the daily use of language, six of Collins' 10 words of the year in 2020 are related to the global health crisis.

"Coronavirus", "social distancing", "self-isolate" and "furlough" as well as "lockdown" and "key worker" were included in the longer list of 10 words of the year. "Key worker" alone has seen a 60-fold increase in usage reflecting the importance attributed this year to essential professions. Collins defines "lockdown" as "the imposition of stringent restrictions on travel, social interaction, and access to public spaces".

US Supreme Court seems likely to leave Obamacare in place



WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court seemed likely Tuesday to leave in place the bulk of the Affordable Care Act, including key protections for pre-existing health conditions and subsidized insurance premiums that affect tens of millions of Americans.

Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Brett Kavanaugh, among the conservative justices, appeared in two hours of arguments to be unwilling to strike down the entire law — a long-held Republican goal that has repeatedly failed in Congress and the courts — even if they were to find the law's now-toothless mandate for obtaining health insurance to be unconstitutional.

The court's three liberal justices are almost certain to vote to uphold the law in its entirety and presumably would form a majority by joining a decision that cut away only the mandate, which now has no financial penalty attached to it. Congress zeroed out the penalty in 2017, but left the rest of the law untouched.

"Would Congress want the rest of the law to survive if the unconstitutional provision were severed? Here, Congress left the rest of the law intact," Roberts said. "That seems to be a compelling answer to the question."

For his part, Kavanaugh said recent decisions by the court suggest "that the proper remedy would be to sever the mandate and leave the rest of the act in place."

A week after the 2020 election, the justices heard arguments by telephone in the midst of the coronavirus pandemic in the court's third major case over the 10-year-old law, popularly known as "Obamacare." Republican attorneys general in 18 states and the administration want the whole law to be struck down, which would threaten coverage for more than 23 million people.

California, leading a group of Democratic-controlled states, and the Democratic-controlled US House of Representatives are urging the court to leave the law in place. Kavanaugh is one of three justices appointed by Trump. AP

BOMBSHELL REPORT

Vatican blames late pope for pedophile cardinal

ROME

A Vatican investigation into former Cardinal Theodore McCarrick has found that a series of bishops, cardinals and popes downplayed or dismissed reports of sexual misconduct with seminarians, and determined that Pope Francis merely continued his predecessors' handling of the predator until a former altar boy alleged abuse.

The Vatican took the extraordinary step Tuesday of publishing its two-year, 449-page internal investigation into the American prelate's rise and fall in a bid to restore credibility to the US and Vatican hierarchies, which have been shattered by the McCarrick scandal.

A summary of the report from the Vatican put the lion's share of blame on a dead saint: Pope John Paul II, who appointed McCarrick archbishop of Washington D.C., in 2000, despite having commissioned an inquiry that confirmed he slept with seminarians. The summary says John Paul believed McCarrick's last-ditch, handwritten denial.

But the report also charts the alarm bells that sounded — but were ignored — nearly a decade earlier, when in 1993 a series of six anonymous letters were sent to US church officials and the Vatican's ambassador to the U.S. alleging McCarrick was a "pedophile" who would sleep in the same bed with young men and boys. The ambassador destroyed the letters, and the US church had a policy at the time of not taking action based on anonymous reports of abuse — a practice that was recently reversed by the Vatican for the church at large.

Disgraced former Cardinal Theodore McCarrick | AFP

McCarrick, 90, was defrocked by Francis last year after a Vatican investigation confirmed decades of allegations that the globe-trotting envoy and successful church fundraiser had sexually molested adults as well as children. The Vatican had reports from authoritative figures dating back to 1999 that McCarrick's behavior was problematic, yet he continued to rise to become an influential cardinal, kingmaker and emissary of the Holy See's "soft diplomacy." AP

South states to get 12.5% weightage: Finance panel

The higher weight was assigned for better show in population control

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WHILE retaining the 41 per cent share of states in the central tax pool, the Fifteenth Finance Commission (FFC) gave 12.5 per cent weightage for 'demographic performance' to compensate southern states which have done better in reform parameters. The FFC, chaired by NK Singh, has used the 2011 census data to decide on how much share each state will get from the central tax pool, which favours states with large populations. It has been learnt to have given 15 per cent weightage to population and 15 per cent to area, among other parameters, which remain tilted mainly towards northern states — the main cause of protest by southern states as they felt they are being punished for population control.

Officials aware of the contents of the report said the commission tried to partially compensate southern states in its term of reference for tax sharing, by giving 12.5 per cent weightage for "demographic performance" as they have done better in reform parameters. However, only after reading the finer details it can be decided how much each state will gain or lose in the new scheme.

The commission has already submitted its report to the finance ministry and the President. It will be made public after being tabled in the Parliament. Sources have also revealed that the commission has, on the request of the centre, has recommended a Modernisation of Defence and Internal Security Fund (MDISF), which is likely to be called Rashtriya Suraksha Naivedyam Kosh — a non-lapse fund, which will be funded partially by the consolidated fund of India.

The FFC is also learnt to have recommended ₹2.9 lakh crore as revenue deficit grant for states. It has also recommended the Centre to hike expenditure on healthcare to 2.5 per cent of GDP with ₹1 lakh crore specific for healthcare facilities in the wake of the pandemic. It has also asked state governments to keep aside at least 8 per cent of their FY22 budget for building healthcare capacities.

FM asks banks to curb cash payments

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

REQUESTING banks to discourage cash transaction, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman gave banks time till March to ensure all accounts are Aadhaar-linked.

"I would think ideally by December, if not by March 31, 2021, every account should have a PAN where needed and applicable and Aadhaar in every case. I don't think beyond December this year I can even be patient to hear that there are still accounts in banks which are not yet Aadhaar seeded," Sitharaman said during the virtual annual general meeting of the Indian Banks 'Association. The finance minister also asked banks to ensure they are using the latest technology to close the loopholes in the banking system to prevent duplication or fake beneficiaries of the government welfare schemes that are administered through direct benefit transfer.

Apart from that, she also asked them to promote Unified Payments Interface-based (UPI) transactions and Rupay cards to make the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) a global brand. She emphasised that the home-grown RuPay card will have to be the only card that banks should promote.

"Whoever needs the card, RuPay will be the only card you would promote. I wouldn't think it is necessary today in India when RuPay is becoming global, for Indians to be given any other card first than the RuPay itself," she added.

In support of the amalgamation of banks, she said the country needed bigger banks but small ones also for rural areas. The minister opined that amalgamation should not just remain as an exercise to bring two or three banks together. India can have eight more SBI's in this country, post amalgamation, she said, adding, "I want large banks, large enough to meet the needs of a growing and aspiring India, and at the same time, smaller banks, banks so that they can reach out to far flung areas."

Oaktree raises DHFL bid to ₹31,000 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

ALL the existing bidder for the troubled non-banking finance company Dewan Housing Finance Corporation (DHFL) have revised their bids upwards including Oaktree, which has submitted fresh bid of ₹31,000 crore, as against its earlier ₹20,000 crore offer.

Sources say the other bidders, too, have followed suit including Piramal group, Adani and SC Lowy, enhancing their bid price on the request of lenders for the company which is under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code.

While Piramal Group has significantly revised its bid for the retail book to ₹26,500 crore from earlier offer of ₹15,000 crore, Adani, which had placed the lowest bid, also raised its bid for the wholesale book to ₹2,700 crore from ₹2,200 crore, with an additional ₹50 crore for the slum redevelopment.

According to the sources, the Committee of Creditors (CoC) are weighing in all the options and is likely to declare the highest bidder by November 17, post Diwali. "This is a very good development. Dewan Housing's liquidation value is expected to be around ₹25,000 crore, fresh offers are significantly higher than earlier one, a source said. DHFL is facing claims of ₹87,031 crore from financial creditors, including ₹10,083 crore from State Bank of India, ₹4,125 crore from Bank of India, ₹2,681 crore from Canara, ₹2,434 crore from NHB, ₹2,378 crore from Union Bank of India, ₹2,229 crore from Syndicate Bank, ₹2,075 crore from Bank of Baroda, and ₹361 crore from HDFC Bank, among others.

EXPECTS TO SIGN RCEP PACT SUNDAY

Indonesia is likely to sign the world's largest trade pact involving 15 countries in Asia Pacific over the weekend. Leaders of the 10-member Association of Southeast Asian Nations, China, Japan, South Korea, Australia and New Zealand are scheduled to conclude talks on the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) on Sunday in a virtual meeting. It may be noted that the 15 countries that account for 29 per cent of global GDP agreed on RCEP terms in 2019. On the other hand, India pulled out of talks last year, worried that the elimination of tariffs would open its markets to a flood of imports that could harm local producers. Following the deal, all countries would have to ratify the RCEP within two years before it becomes effective.

$140 BN NEEDED FOR DISASTER RELIEF, INFRA

Japan needs to spend roughly 15 trillion yen or $140 billion over the next five years on disaster relief and infrastructure, according to officials in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party. Even Japanese Prime Minister is believed to be compiling a package of stimulus measures to revitalise an economy hit by the pandemic. Japan's economy is expected to have rebounded in Q3 after posting a record postwar contraction in the preceding 3-month period following the nationwide lockdown. Stronger exports and output thanks to a pickup in overseas demand have helped the recovery, but weak capital investment and household spending kept policymakers under pressure to further boost fiscal and monetary support.

CHINA

INFLATION FAILS TO PERK UP, DEFIES RECOVERY

China's factory prices fell at a sharper-than-expected pace in October, weighed by soft demand for fuel even as the trade and manufacturing sectors staged impressive recoveries from their Covid-19 slump, reported Reuters. The producer price index fell 2.1% over last year. On a monthly basis, it slowed from a 0.1% increase. Oil and gas extraction prices fell 4.9% sequentially while fuel processing costs declined 1.6%. Meanwhile, consumer inflation eased to an 11-year low as pork prices snapped a year-and-a-half of steep rises that was fuelled, by shortages of the popular meat. While the weaker price gauges largely reflect swings in volatile items, they also show upstream demand for industrial goods remains tepid overall.

Lockout at Bidadi plant amid protest

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

JAPANESE carmaker Toyota Kirloskar Motor (TKM) has declared a "lock-out" situation in its Bidadi (Karnataka Plant) following a sit in strike by workers' union members.

"At present the TKM Union has resorted to illegal sit-in Strike and those team members are unlawfully staying in the company premises and compromising the COVID-19 guidelines. Due to the current volatile atmosphere and to protect the safety of employees, Toyota Kirloskar Motor is forced to declare a "lock-out" until further notice," said TKM's statement.

Reports suggest around 1,200 workers are staging a protest after one of its employees was suspended. "Despite our efforts to maintain a cordial and healthy working environment based on employee participation and maintaining desired level of discipline in the plant, one of the employees who has a systematic record of misconducts was again involved in breach of discipline and unacceptable behaviour which is in violation of law and service policy of the company. Accordingly, he has been placed under suspension pending enquiry in line with the company rules and applicable laws," it added.

'Amazon is trying to kill Future Group by trying to stall the RIL deal'

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

THE ongoing saga of Future Group-Amazon tussle has witnessed a new twist.

Hearing the case on Tuesday, after Future Retail Limited (FRL) filed a suit seeking injunction on the Singapore's Arbitration award which is in Amazon's favour, Harish Salve, senior lawyer on behalf of FRL told the Delhi High Court that American retailer is trying to kill the Future group by stalling the deal between FRL and Reliance Retail Ventures Ltd.

Emergency arbitration award doesn't apply in India. Amazon has invested `1400 crore, and it can be compensated by the Biyanis

Harish Salve for FRL

Salve added that since Amazon is bound by India's Foreign Direct Investment rules (FDI) not to invest directly in FRL, which is a multi-brand retail firm, it is also not letting Reliance to salvage the debt-ridden Future group, which is badly in need of money. He further said that the emergency arbitration award doesn't apply in India and FRL is under no binding to follow the same.

"The Law Commission wanted Section 2(1)(d) amended, one of the recommendations was to include an Emergency Arbitrator but the Parliament didn't include it. In any case if they assert the two agreements are to be dovetailed into each other, then it has indirectly invested in us, in which case it has put FDI in multi brand retail and the agreements must be thrown out. Amazon invested ₹1400 crore, it can be compensated by Biyanis," Salve argued.

Amazon currently owns 49 per cent stake in Future Coupons Limited (FCL) which in turn has a 9.82 per cent shareholding in FRL. The e-tailer had earlier said that Future Retail's sale of its retail, wholesale, logistics and warehousing businesses for ₹24,713 crore to rival Reliance violated a non-compete clause it had with the Kishore Biyani Group, when it bought 49 per cent stake in FCL with first right to more shares.

Reliance, which has been made a party to the suit filed by FRL told the court, that Amazon should not be allowed to stall the deal with Future retail and approach market regulators. The court has now asked Amazon to respond.

Discom dues start moving north again, inches up 48% to ₹1.26 lakh cr in Sept

JONATHAN ANANDA @ New Delhi

THE Centre may have enhanced its support package for power distribution companies (discom), but data from the Union Ministry of Power shows that pending dues to power generators (gencos) are rising again. As of September 30, 2020, discoms owed gencos a little over ₹1.26 lakh crore-up 3.7 per cent over the previous month and a whopping 47.5 per cent compared to September last year.

Discom debt has been on a steady upward trajectory since long before the pandemic and subsequent lockdowns took out almost all of industrial demand. While March 2020 saw a 3.9 per cent sequential reduction, the lockdowns resulted in discoms accumulating ₹24,344 crore in debt over the next three months. The Centre's ₹90,000 crore package initially arrested this rise, with dues contracting sequentially in July (-0.2%). But, the needle has spiked again in August (1.8%) and September (3.7%). In the meantime, the liquidity assistance package (in the form of loans extended by PFC and REC) has been enhanced to ₹1.25 lakh crore. Of this, the state-run financiers have sanctioned ₹1.18 lakh crore in loans to discoms to date and disbursed ₹31,100 crore to 11 states, according to Emkay Global analysts.

However, industry sources say unpaid dues could take a while to settle down, despite improving demand and collections. According to a senior state discom executive, utilities have had a hard time due to two factors: a fall in bill collections, though only marginal, and a large scale fall in industrial demand. "Household demand rose, but this only made things worse. Industrial power tariffs are where the profits lie because household supply is heavily subsidised. These subsidies have to be paid by states to discoms, but since revenues have tanked, governments have had trouble meeting payments too," the executive added.

M&M reports 88% dip in Sept qtr profit

Godrej Group forays into housing finance biz

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Godrej Group, which has interests in consumer goods, security products, defence and engineering, Tuesday announced its foray into the housing finance sector and is targeting to disburse ₹3,000 crore loans in the next three years.

The new arm of the group—Godrej Housing Finance (GHF)—will start with an equity capital of ₹1,500 crore infused by the promoters for the first three years, said GHF chairman Pirojsha Godrej. Beyond that, it may consider getting an external investor on board and an initial public offering in 6-7 years, once the need for more capital arises. GHF would offer home loans at 6.69 per cent and aims to touch ₹10,000 crore in assets under management over the next three years.

According to Manish Shah, managing director and chief executive of the new venture, retail will be the core focus for the company and GHF will not be entering the developer loan segment, where a slew of its peers have faced reverses. The lender intends to focus on the mortgage business starting with home loans, followed shortly by loans against property. In the near future, the company will expand its portfolio to offer business and personal loans, leveraging the group's consumer and agri business ecosystems to build these verticals, the company said. "We believe that the housing finance market is under penetrated and underserved. The industry is also plagued with being complex and convoluted with hidden conditions and painfully long customer journeys. We aim to correct this. We want to give customers a home loan that is customised to what's important to them, based on their housing needs, financial capability and convenience," Shah added.

The structural and medium-term narrative on topline growth is turning highly attractive – led by strong traction in the profitable Healthcare business and an attractive rural growth outlook (~48% of domestic sales from rural). Rich near-term valuations appear justified at this initial stage of structural turnaround, which could result in ~20% EPS growth.

Sivakasi cracker manufacturers stare at an uncertain future

BINITA JAISWAL @ Chennai

Small business owners have nowhere to go

Even as big manufacturers are slowly shifting to other businesses, the small manufacturers have no other ways to survive. They are in the business of making crackers for over decades, said Manivannan S, a cracker manufacturer in Sivakasi.

TAMIL Nadu's Sivakasi, which accounts for 90 per cent of the cracker industry in India, is staring at a black Diwali and equally dark uncertain future.

With cracker production in the units already down by about 60 per cent, no capital in hand, huge pending dues and bank loans mounting up, the cracker manufacturers are spending sleepless nights. The pandemic had already broken the backbone of the industry, yet the manufacturers had hopes that Diwali business would help them to overcome the bad times. As the manufacturing units were gearing to dispatch their products, few state governments prohibited firecrackers but the final deadly blow came on Monday for the industry after the National Green Tribunal (NGT) banned sale and use of firecrackers across the country where air quality is poor.

Sivakasi houses over 1,100 firecracker manufacturing units its over eight lakh people who are employed in the industry are now clueless about their future after the ban order. According to men in the business, crackers produced in Sivakasi amounts to a retail sales of nearly ₹6,000 crore annually.

"For others, Diwali is just a festival but for us it is the only source of our livelihood when around 80 per cent of our business takes place. The entire year we work hard in making new crackers to attract customers in Diwali. We produce only after fully complying with the pollution guidelines. The order has sent shockwaves across the industry," said Rajendra Raja, vice-president, Indian Fireworks Manufacturers' Association. "This year' business is already down by almost 60 per cent and the ban order has just added to our woes," said Raja

According to S Balaji, secretary of Tamil Nadu Fireworks and Amorces Manufacturers Association (TANFAMA), the majority of the business happens on credit as small retailers from North India make bulk purchases from the manufacturers by paying them some advance amount. They pay the remaining amount only after selling the stock. "We genuinely don't know what lies ahead for the industry," he added.

Honda star Marquez to return in 2021

Six-time MotoGP world champ Marc Marquez, who has not raced since fracturing his arm in the season-opener (Spanish GP in July), will sit out the final two events on the 2020 calendar, his Honda team announced. Marquez, 27, will now focus on a return to the track in 2021.

MI5 DESERT PROTOCOL

Skipper Rohit leads charge after good show by bowlers, Mumbai retain crown with ease

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FIVE titles in eight years. In the short history of the Indian Premier League (IPL), this is unparalleled success, success Mumbai Indians can boast about. They entered the final against Delhi Capitals on Tuesday — a team they had already defeated thrice this season — as favourites and they lived up to the tag. Under the Dubai lights, they completed a five-wicket win to ensure they became only the second team after Chennai Super Kings to defend the title.

Despite the match lasting 39 overs, Delhi hardly put Mumbai in a spot of bother. In fact, the final bordered on being a one-sided contest for the majority. Mumbai had answers to every question Delhi posed. Right from the start of the season, Mumbai have been the stand out team, with their bowling arsenal complimenting their batting that muscled totals at will.

To stop such an in-form, well-oiled team, Delhi needed to bring their A-game. Instead, they appeared to take the field as if they felt Mumbai already had the upper hand. Mumbai, on the other hand, were calm and composed. A relaxed body language meant Trent Boult was on the money straightaway, Marcus Stoinis edging the first ball to the wicketkeeper. From there on, except for the 11.3 overs when Shreyas Iyer and Rishabh Pant kept Delhi hopes alive, the IPL trophy was heading only one way, back to Mumbai.

Captain Rohit Sharma hit a 51-ball 68 for Mumbai in the final on Tuesday | SPORTZPICS

Compared to other teams, Rohit Sharma's men are a side that relies heavily on data. It is a squad comprising of players picked by their robust scouting team headed by John Wright. The Pandya brothers, Krunal and Hardik, and Jasprit Bumrah are their finds which complement their core group that has remained intact. Apart from relying on auction, they use the trading window to plug their holes. Quinton de Kock and Trent Boult are two players they traded from other teams. It shows how prepared they are.

This is their third final in four years, each one ending in a win, and it showed how far they are ahead of other teams. If Chennai Super Kings dominated the first half-a-dozen years, the second half has seen Mumbai emerge as one of the best sides.

Brief scores: DC 156/7 (Iyer 65 n.o, Pant 56, Boult 3/30, Coulter-Nile 2/29) lose to MI 157/5 in 18.4 ovs (Rohit 68, Ishan 33 n.o).

Big auction, team from Ahmedabad next year

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI), apart from informing IPL franchises to prepare for a full-fledged player auction next year, has also told them to welcome a ninth team. While the IPL Governing Council has not discussed this formally, multiple franchises told this daily there have been informal discussions and a formal decision is expected soon.

A player auction was scheduled ahead of the 2021 season, but with the current edition finishing on Tuesday, there were doubts if there would be enough time. Some franchises were in favour of delaying it by a year as there is only a six-month gap between the 2020 edition and the one in 2021.

However, it is understood that over the past week, there have been developments. It is learnt the BCCI is planning to have the auction in January or mid-February so that franchises get time to plan ahead of the 2021 edition, which will start in the last week of March. A franchise official informed that the BCCI was initially looking at deferring the auction by a year, but since a corporate giant is keen on buying a team, it has become necessary to hold it.

"The BCCI has told us to be prepared for an auction in a couple of months. Though it is not official, that they have asked us to be ready means they will go ahead as planned. Moreover, with a new team coming in, it makes sense to have an auction now rather than deferring it by a year," a franchise official said.

It is understood that the ninth team will be from Ahmedabad and the corporate house is keen on making the new Sardar Patel Stadium its home. While the auction is more or less finalised, there is no clarity on player retention. In the big auction which happens once in three years, teams were allowed to retain up to four players. A right-to-match card is also available.

National swimming events not before April

SRINIDHI PR @Chennai

DELAY in reopening pools and the onset of winter have forced the Swimming Federation of India (SFI) to change their plans to conduct competitions. The national body is looking at next year's April-June window to start the domestic season, beginning with age-group championships.

Swimming was the last discipline to get the restart nod from the Ministry of Home Affairs. Swimmers were allowed to resume training from October 15. While states such as Karnataka, Goa, Maharashtra have reopened pools for competitive swimmers, Odisha, Tamil Nadu and Kerala are apprehensive, fearing a second wave of coronavirus.

As far as northern states are concerned, with temperatures plunging below 20 and 15 degrees, taking a dip in water is not a priority at the moment. Unlike other countries, all-weather pools are few and far between in India, which means swimmers from states where it gets cold prefer skipping practice during the winter. Given that they need at least a few months of training, SFI has ruled out competitions in the near future.

"In all probability, the competition calendar would be post March only," Monal Choksi, SFI's secretary general, said. "Swimmers in the northern states will not be able to train even if the governments permit. Most of the pools are outdoors. So, it is not possible for the northern and north-eastern states to resume training in the winter." Generally, the swimming season in India begins with junior and sub-junior national meets in June-July, followed by senior championships in August and September.

BSFI polls on Dec 12

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

DAYS after sports ministry decided to give recognition to Billiards and Snooker Federation of India (BSFI) until December 31 as elections were due, notice of the annual general meeting and elections were issued last week. The AGM to be held on December 12 in Bengaluru will elect office-bearers — president, vice presidents (4), secretary-general and treasurer – besides nominating names for its managing committees.

The nomination paper has to be delivered in person to the returning officer from November 29 to December 1. The returning officer will scrutinise on December 4 and last date of withdrawal is December 6.

"Each permanent member state/union territory duly affiliated by BSFI as its permanent member shall have two votes at the elections of the office-bearers," read the notice issued by the federation. There are 25 state/union territory units affiliated to the BSFI taking the total vote count to 50. Railway Sports Promotion Board and Petroleum Sports Promotion Board do not have the voting rights.

All incumbent office-bearers including president MC Uthappa and in-charge secretary-general Sunil Bajaj are expected to contest for their respective posts. All of them are serving their first term. "It's too early to speak on the nominations but I am thinking of contesting polls for the post I hold," said Bajaj. "As far as the managing committee is concerned, the BSFI constitution allows us to nominate two members from each affiliated unit which means 50 will be nominated for the panel."

However, there are also chances of new entrants contesting polls. "We are consulting affiliated units. There are a few members who will turn 70 in next couple of years. They will become ineligible next time given the age limit. If they wish to contest then, a few from the existing group have to wait," said one of the office-bearers.

CPF to request AP govt to exclude Chess.com from banned betting sites

ATREYO MUKHOPADHYAY @Chennai

CHESS Players Forum (CPF), an association of chess players in India, will write to the Andhra Pradesh government seeking removal of the ban on the website Chess.com. In a recent amendment of the AP Gaming Act, the Andhra government banned 132 websites to prevent online gaming, gambling and betting. Chess.com is among those.

Officials of CPF are of the opinion that Chess.com is not a gambling site. According to them, it is a useful platform for upcoming and seasoned chess players, where they can play, learn and improve their game by various means. Their letter to the Andhra government is expected to be sent on Wednesday. Some prominent players from the state are likely to endorse it. Describing Chess.com as a beneficial medium for players, CPF secretary V Saravanan said: "It's good for training, playing and overall understanding of chess. For example, during the lockdown when no tournaments are held, one can stay in touch using this platform. Players can organise their own tournaments. Also, an upcoming player seldom gets the opportunity to play against strong players over the board. Using these platforms, one can play against players like Magnus Carlsen, Hikaru Nakamura or Maxime Vachier-Lagrave."

Chess.com offers free registration and has some 40 million users. Some of its features are available for free, some require subscriptions. Users can play rapid and blitz time controls. Analysis, puzzles and teaching materials are also offered. It has hosted tournaments including this year's Online Chess Olympiad and Online Nations Cup.

In a letter to Ravi Shankar Prasad (union minister for communications, electronics and information technology) dated October 27, chief minister Jagan Mohan Reddy wrote: "We have amended the AP Gaming Act, 1974 to include online gaming, online gambling and online betting as an offence through Andhra Pradesh (Amendment) Ordinance, 2020 which was notified on 25th September 2020."

The chief minster's letter added: "I would request you to direct all the Internet Service Providers to block all the gaming, gambling and betting websites and apps from access in Andhra Pradesh. A list of websites identified to be involved in online gaming, gambling and betting is being attached." Chess.com is 128th in that list.

241+ Individuals from 19 countries have visited ISS

3,000 research projects have taken place on ISS

EXFILE • SPACE

BREAKING THE ICE OF COLD WAR POLITICS

Last week, the International Space Station (ISS) celebrated its 20th anniversary of continuous human occupation. With astronauts and cosmonauts from around the world working together, ISS has demonstrated humankind's ability to not only live and work in space, but cooperate with one another. We take a look at the past 20 years and what else we can expect more

100+
COUNTRIES JOIN IN
What began as competition has turned into fruitful cooperation not just between Russia and the US, but Canada, Japan, Italy, the ESA and over 100 other countries

FROM COLD WAR NEMESIS TO COLLABORATORS

The path to this anniversary was not easy; like most things done in space, the cost and the difficulty were extremely high

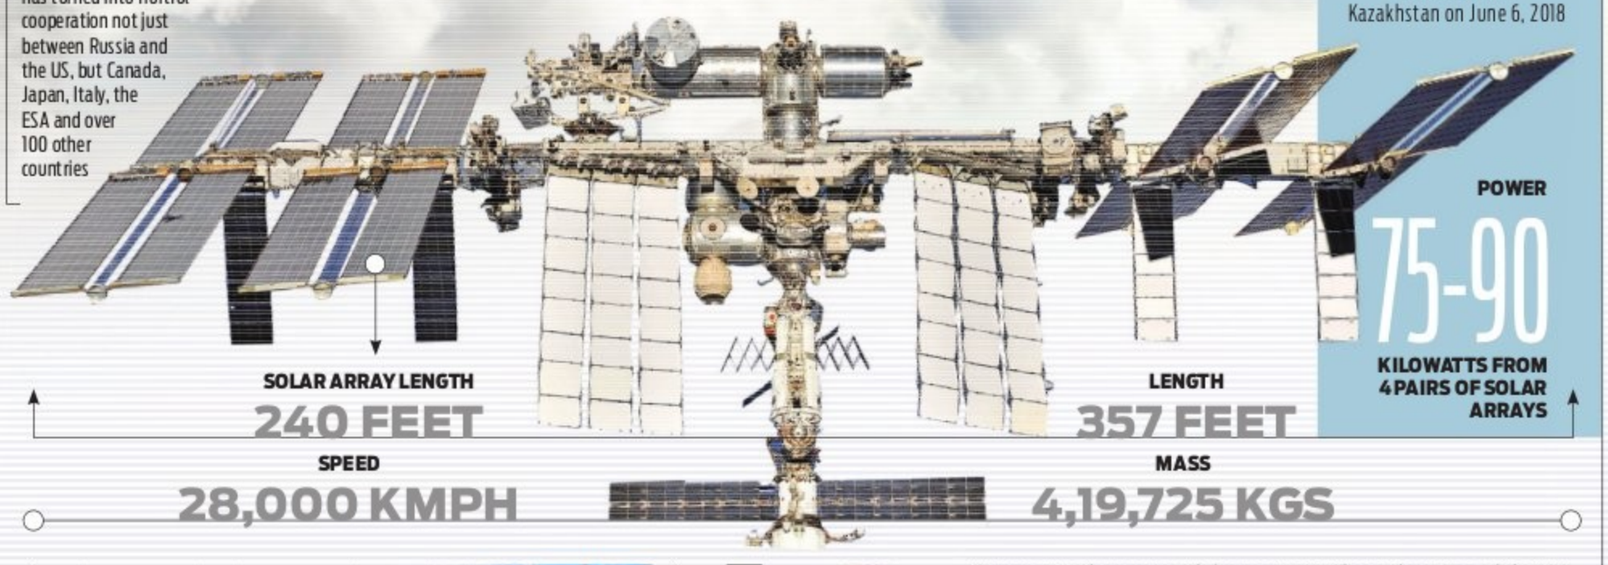
The space station was supported by the Ronald Reagan's administration as part of the Cold War competition with the Soviet Union in the 1980s

Following the Challenger disaster in 1986, planning fell by the wayside as costs increased

1990s

Facing delays and cost overruns, the space station – then known as Freedom – was nearly cancelled by the House of Representatives

While already bringing international partners aboard to lower costs, Bill Clinton's administration invited Russia to participate, leveraging the station as a tool of foreign policy between former adversaries



Soyuz MS-09 rocket launched from Kazakhstan on June 6, 2018

POWER
75-90
KILOWATTS FROM 4 PAIRS OF SOLAR ARRAYS

LEGACY

ISS has proven that humans can live and work in space. Experiments have allowed researchers to study materials and chemicals in a microgravity environment. Astronauts have also learned how to grow food on the station, leading to insights on how plants grow on Earth

However, perhaps one of the most significant legacies of the ISS is the long-term cooperation that has enabled it. While the US and Russia are the countries most closely identified with the programme, Canada, Japan and the European Space Agency also take part. While not always easy, sustained cooperation in a place where operations are difficult and costly is impressive

SCIENCE SANS POLITICS

While there was some cooperation between the US and Soviet Union during the Cold War, ISS is the first major space programme in which the two have worked together

Even as relations between Russia and the US have deteriorated over the past several years, the partnership on the ISS has continued

While scientific and space cooperation does not solve all terrestrial issues, it can strengthen other diplomatic relationships

FUTURE OF ISS

Though turning 20 may not seem like a milestone, for a complicated piece of machinery operating in the dangerous environment of space, the ISS is approaching old age

In recent years, it has suffered several problems, most recently an air leak in the Russian module, Zvezda

However, recent assessments support continued operation of the ISS for at least another 10 years

COMMERCIALISATION

Recently, cosmetics company Estee Lauder launched one of its products to the station to be featured in a commercial filmed there

SpaceX is looking to make the ISS a tourist destination following NASA's 2019 decision making it easier for space tourists to visit. Another space company, Axiom, recently received a contract to build a commercial module to be added to the ISS in 2024

CARGO WEIGHT

Brazilian regulators pause trial of Sinovac's candidate citing 'severe adverse incident'; FDA clears antibody treatment that helps reduce hospitalisation in adult and paediatric Covid-19 patients

BRAZIL HALTS CHINESE-MADE VACCINE TRIALS

MEDICINE

SAO PAULO: Brazil's health regulator has halted clinical trials of the potential coronavirus vaccine CoronaVac, citing an "adverse, serious event." The decision posted on Anvisa's website on Monday night elicited immediate surprise from parties involved in producing the vaccine.

The potential vaccine is being developed by Chinese biopharmaceutical firm Sinovac and in Brazil would be mostly produced by Sao Paulo's state-run Butantan Institute. Sao Paulo state's government said it "regrets being informed by the press and not directly by Anvisa, as normally occurs in clinical trials of this nature."

Butantan said in a statement that it was surprised by Anvisa's decision and Dimas Covas, who leads Butantan, said on TV Cultura on Monday that while a volunteer had died, it was not due to the shot. "We found this Anvisa decision strange, because it is unrelated to the vaccine. There are more than 10,000 volunteers at this moment," he said.

Sinovac issued a short statement in China on Tuesday saying it was in touch with Brazilian authorities.

"Sinovac will continue to communicate with Brazil on this matter. The clinical study in Brazil is strictly carried out in accordance with GCP requirements and we are confident in the safety of the vaccine," it said, referring to Good Clinical Practice, a set of international standards for ethics and data quality in clinical research. It did not offer further details.

Temporary halts of drug and vaccine testing are relatively common. In research involving thousands of participants, some are likely to fall ill. Pausing a study allows researchers to investigate whether an illness is a side effect or a coincidence. Last month, two drugmakers resumed testing of their prospective coronavirus vaccines in the US after they were halted earlier.

The CoronaVac shot has already stirred controversy in Brazil, where President Jair Bolsonaro has cast doubt on its prospective effectiveness. He publicly rejected it last month, saying Brazilians would not be used as guinea pigs. The declaration followed news that his health minister, Eduardo Pazuello, had agreed to purchase CoronaVac doses produced locally by Butantan.

Bolsonaro has often expressed mistrust of China, particularly on the campaign trail in 2018, although he has softened his rhetoric in office. However, Bolsonaro has thrown his support behind another vaccine, developed by Oxford University in Britain and the pharmaceutical firm AstraZeneca.

EMERGENCY APPROVAL FOR LILLY'S THERAPY

MEDICINE

WASHINGTON: The US Food and Drug Administration on Monday granted emergency approval to a synthetic antibody treatment against Covid-19 developed by Eli Lilly, after the drug was shown to reduce the risk of hospitalisation and emergency room visits.

Bamlanivimab at a dose of 700 milligrammes was authorised for the treatment of mild-to-moderate Covid-19 in adults and children aged 12 years and older who are at high risk for progressing to the severe form of the disease.

It is the first major drug to be approved that was designed specifically against the new coronavirus.

"As illustrated by today's action, the FDA remains committed to expediting the development and availability of potential Covid-19 treatments," said the agency's chief Stephen Hahn.

The approval was based on a mid-stage clinical trial for outpatients with mild to moderate Covid-19, where the intravenous treatment was shown to reduce viral loads and rates of symptoms and hospitalisation.

The FDA said in its statement that the most important evidence that bamlanivimab may be effective came from data that showed that among patients at high risk of severe disease, hospitalisations and emergency room visits occurred in 3 per cent of bamlanivimab-treated patients compared to 10 per cent who were on the placebo.

The frequency and types of side effects were similar between bamlanivimab and placebo, with the majority being mild to moderate in severity. The most common were diarrhea, dizziness, headache, itchiness and vomiting.

An important caveat is that bamlanivimab has not been authorised for patients who are hospitalised — since no benefit has been shown for patients who are already in this late stage of the disease, when the body's immune defences go into overdrive and damage organs.

Bamlanivimab is what's known as a monoclonal antibody, a relatively new class of drugs that are best known for treating certain types of cancer and autoimmune disease.

Human immune systems produce antibodies, which are infection-fighting proteins, and vaccines teach our bodies to be prepared to make the right ones for particular pathogens.

Bamlanivimab was based on an effective antibody Lilly found in a recovered patient. The host immune cells that produce the antibodies can be cultured in a lab to produce the desired proteins en masse. It works by binding to a surface protein of the coronavirus to stop it from invading human cells.

Rare golden coins found in Jerusalem's Old City

ARCHAEOLOGY

JERUSALEM: Israeli archeologists have discovered four pure gold coins in Jerusalem's Old City that were minted more than 1,000 years ago, a rare find from an era of political upheaval in the region.

The Israel Antiquities Authority (IAA) said the coins were unearthed during excavation work near the Western Wall, which is the holiest site where Jews can pray. The coins, contained in a small jug, "were in excellent preservation and were immediately identifiable even without cleaning," IAA specialist Robert Kool said in a statement.

The coins date from the 940s to the 970s, "a time of radical political change," in Jerusalem and the surrounding region, Kool added. During that period, the ruling Sunni Abbasid caliphate, which was headquartered in Baghdad, lost control of Jerusalem to its rival, the Shiite Fatimid dynasty of North Africa, which fell in the 12th Century.

"This is the first time in fifty years that a gold cache from the Fatimid period has been discovered in Jerusalem's Old City," Kool said.

"Four dinars was a considerable sum of money for most of the population, who lived under difficult conditions at the time," he added. Israeli excavators last uncovered gold from the Fatimid period shortly after the 1967 Six-Day War, which saw Israel seize control of east Jerusalem from Jordan, before annexing it.

Four dinars was a considerable sum of money for most of the population, who lived under difficult conditions at the time. It was equal to the monthly salary of a minor official, or four months' salary for a common labourer

Why female banded mongooses fight with rivals

WILDLIFE

WASHINGTON: When families of banded mongooses prepare to fight, they form battle lines.

Each clan of about 20 animals stands nose to nose, their ears flattened back, as they stare down the enemy. A patch of scrubby savannah separates them, until the first animals run forward.

"Then they bunch up into writhing balls, chaotic and fast-moving, and you hear high-pitched screeches," said Michael Cant, a biologist at the University of Exeter who has been studying the species in Uganda for 25 years. "We call it mongoose warfare."

The catlike striped mammals only weigh up to 2 kilogrammes each, but the vicious fights can last more than an hour. A question that has intrigued Cant and other scientists is: Why do these social animals fight?

Chimpanzees are the most famous example of family-oriented mammals who wage group warfare — both to defend or expand their territories and to take females from other families. But individual mongooses almost never leave the group they're born into.

Banded mongooses are known for almost unbreakable devotion to their birth family — as well as cooperative living habits, including sharing den-guarding and pup-rearing responsibilities, said Cant.

Combining field observations and analysis of 19 years of demographic and behavioural data for a population of 10 to 12 families — about 200 mongooses at any time — the team found that at least one purpose of the fights is to allow females a chance to mate with opponent males. That avoids or minimises inbreeding.

"We think females play a role in inciting these conflicts to escape the males in their own family groups during the confusion and chaos of battle," said Cant.

Their research, published in Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, found that almost all fights are initiated by groups when their females are in oestrus or fertile, which happens among all females at the same time. Often the females take a lead in steering groups to places where they will encounter combative neighbours. About 20 per cent of pups in a group are sired by males from opposing groups, DNA analysis showed.

"This is fascinating research on a pretty unique situation," said Michael Wilson, a biological anthropologist at the University of Minnesota, who studies group fighting in mammals and was not involved in the new study.

Females are strongly motivated to find mates in other groups, Wilson said. "But it's really hard to do that because as soon as they come into oestrus, they get followed doggedly by a male in their own group. The only way they can shake him off is to visit the neighbours and start a fight."

SPARKLING WITH SAFETY

This Deepavali, make sure fear about the pandemic doesn't gatecrash your home party. Here are some tips to keep in mind to enjoy a safe fiesta

Illustration

• Simran Ahuja

The festival of lights is almost around the corner, and this year, everyone is waiting for a vaccine to triumph over the virus. Since large gatherings and Deepavali melas are a big no this time, many are opting for small, cozy and intimate dos at home. With a few safety tips in mind, you too can plan the perfect party for the festive season, one that lets you enjoy without undue stress.

The first thumb rule, experts point out, is to keep the guest list limited. The total number of people at home should not exceed 10, says Dr S N Aravinda, consultant, internal medicine, Aster RV Hospital. And when it comes to time spent together, shorter durations are sweeter, he points out, adding, "Your party should last 90-150 minutes. Eating, when guests aren't wearing masks, should be limited to 20 minutes."

Since outdoors and well-ventilated spots are more suited to the current times, consider keeping your party in a garden, terrace or balcony. For a cozy look, opt for a carpet with some floor cushions. "Not only are these comfortable, they can also be easily moved to provide for more distancing. To sanitise the cushions, you can use cotton covers, which can then be washed after the guests leave," suggests Abhinayah Sundaramoorthy, co-founder of The Yellow Dwelling, a home furnishing and decor brand.

Opt for diwans, bean bags or throw pillows that can be easily moved to provide for more distancing

Sneha Chopra, an event planner and founder of Themed by Sneha Chopra, agrees. "Low seating is not just in trend right now, it also accommodates more people with distance. Options like diwans, throwers, pillows, bean bags are good ideas," she says, adding that she too is planning a home party this year. "We've divided our seating areas to three, including specific areas for cards and games, and dining," she adds.

Since there's no festival without a feast, Pavithra N Raj, chief dietician, Columbia Asia Referral Hospital, Yeshwanthpur, has suggestions that can help ensure your spread is laid out with a side of safety. This festive season, infuse your offerings with immunity-boosting ingredients like ghee, oranges, lemons and pepper. "Instead of a buffet, have only one or two people serving the food, with gloves on, of course. This would be better than everyone touching the serve wear," she says, adding that disposable crockery and cutlery is recommended over steel or porcelain alternatives. "Recently, hosts at a party I went to did something interesting. The food was pre-packed and given to us to take home so that our get-together was safe and focused on connecting with each other. This could be a good alternative in these times," she adds.

PARTY SHOTS

- Keep the guest list limited to 10 people, and interaction time to 90-150 minutes. Split the guests into different groups, if need be
- Enquire if your guests have experienced any symptoms before the party
- Keep the get-together in an open area and opt for easy-to-clean cushions for seating options
- Sanitise the space a day in advance and after your guests' departure
- Divide seating areas to have designated spots for games, food and conversations
- Since eating will require no masks, ensure this is limited to just 15-20 minutes
- Have only one or two people serving the food to ensure minimal contact
- Healthy menu options can include orange juice with a pinch of rock salt, besan laddoo, dry fruit laddoo, citrus salads, buttermilk, etc

Q&A

YESTERDAY'S Ghosts has all the elements to keep readers hooked, says Nikhil Pradhan. The 35-year-old Bengaluru-based advertising professional, who hails from Gangtok, tells us more about his second work (HarperCollins, ₹299), and the web series that his first book is being turned into:

What made you go for a espionage-horror story for your second book?
Yesterday's Ghosts also brings together elements from military thrillers and classic mysteries. In my opinion, these two genres are responsible for most of the 'unputdownable' books out there. I wanted Yesterday's Ghosts to be similar. With this book, I've tried to take the twists and turns of espionage thrillers and meld it with the sheer terror and claustrophobia of the horror genre.

What kind of research went into the book?
While I didn't focus on extensive research before I began to write, I used online search whenever I felt that factual accuracy could aid the plot. Researching the book led me to dive into topics like the IPKF's operations in Sri Lanka in the 1980s, tradecraft employed in signals intelligence, and the mystery surrounding numbers stations.

Your first book, Cold Truth, is being turned into a web series...
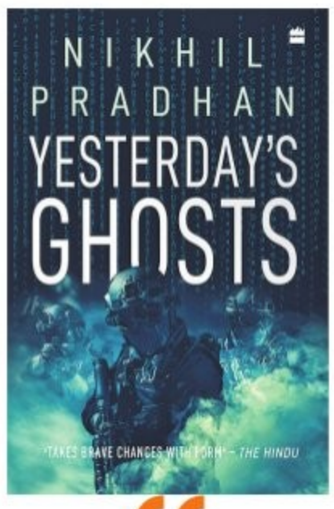
I was lucky to be approached by Razorblade Enterprise, a Mumbai-based production company, a few months after Cold Truth released. Since then, it's been a steady yet exciting process to work with them to turn the book into something that can hit screens. Thanks to this partnership, I've been able to interact with global creative minds from the entertainment industry. Currently, Razorblade is co-partnering with Radical Media, one of Hollywood's top media companies, for the web series.



In the hours I've spent in bookshops like Blossoms and Bookworm, I've come across every kind of reader – from comic geeks and Tolkien buffs to management book connoisseurs and literary fiction fans

—Nikhil Pradhan, author

Yesterday's Ghosts* has all the components to make to the big screen. Is that in the offing?
Yes! A book-to-screen agency is working with my publishers to pitch Yesterday's Ghosts to studios and production houses. I hope to have an update on that soon.

What do you think about the kind of literature that readers are inclined towards now?
In the hours I've spent in bookshops like Blossoms and Bookworm, I've come across every kind of reader – from comic geeks and Tolkien buffs to management book connoisseurs and literary fiction fans. So I don't really think that readers are biased towards any specific kind of literature.

Did you always want to be a writer?
Absolutely. I wrote my first book (a Hardy Boys knock-off) when I was about 10 years old, and haven't really stopped writing since. As a result, I've collected plenty of rejection letters from publishers, unpublished short stories and novellas, and copious amounts of story ideas and notes.

You belong to Gangtok. What brought you to Bengaluru?
I was born in Gangtok, but have spent most of my life in various parts of the country. I moved to Bengaluru in 2008 and apart from a 3-year stint in Noida, I've lived here for most of my adult life. I love the city for its kind weather, kinder people, and the fact that its nightlife is more temperate than either Mumbai or Delhi. Plus, the beer is awesome. There's no city, apart from Gangtok, that I'd rather live in.

CRACKER QUANDARIES

URBAN BOURBON
Hriday Ranjan
Writer, comedian

With various state governments imposing restrictions on the bursting of crackers, I wonder how this year's Deepavali will look and sound like. As a child, I respected Deepavali more than other festivals, simply because it was powerful enough to dislodge the seemingly cruel education system. Christmas came during the beginning of the school's second term, Sankranti coincided with the preboards, and Holi arrived bang in the middle of the annual exams. But whether you were a child or adult, you were allotted a holiday to celebrate Deepavali.

As urban Indians, there are essentially two kinds of Deepavalis we celebrate – the first a carefree, adventurous Deepavali as children. And the second – an environmentally conscious Deepavali as a grownup. Since this year's festival coincides with Children's Day, I firmly believe that the child in me had much more fun during Deepavali.

As a teenager, it was the night when I was got caught drinking for the first time at home. We had downed copious amounts of vodka, and stuffed our mouths with chewing gum. But when my folks noticed that my reflexes were extremely slow, their suspicions were proven right. This led to a month-long quarantine at home – an anticlimactic end to a childhood that revelled in the festival of lights.

While studying journalism, I became aware of the environmental aspects of crackers, and the conditions they were manufactured in. Over the last decade, whether or not I celebrated Deepavali depended on who I was with. For some years, I chose to get sloshed like Narakasura on Diwali night. On others, I would join friends to burst a few stray crackers.

But nostalgia and childhood are uncorrupted. Deepavali for me has always been the smell of fireworks. The bubbling excitement of traveling on my father's scooter to a location that sold crackers at wholesale rates... Bamboo stalls lined up with crackers, resembling the sets of Charlie and the Crackers Factory. Crackers arranged in varying levels of risk – from the harmless sparklers to toy guns with reels of tiny blobs of gunpowder bullets. I would later graduate to 'bombs' – unabashedly named 'Hydrogen Bomb' and 'Atom Bomb'. And the showstopper – a hybrid of nuclear fission and fusion – the 'Ganga-Jamuna 2-in-1 Bomb'!

The crackers would be brought home, the entire house smelling of gunpowder. Crackers would be dried out on the terrace to remove any dampness. I would keep a check on them, lest an imaginative crow mistook a chakri for a colourful vada and flew away with it. The few days before D-day would be spent with my toy gun, shooting imaginary crooks. As the day grew nearer, the excitement reached a feverish pitch.

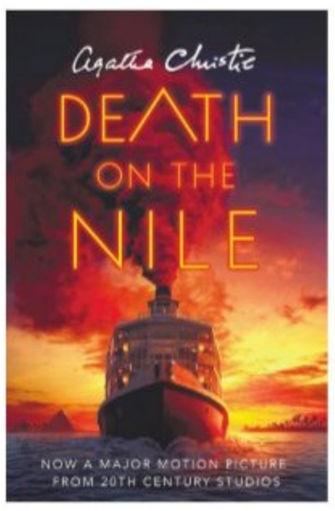
Deepavali night made everything else pale into insignificance – puja, sweets, a new film on TV, and even new clothes. As evening gave way to night, my father would bring out a bucket of cold water – an early example of accident insurance. He would then carefully pull out of the wick of every cracker for added safety and keep them ready. The next few hours would be spent in lighting the crackers with an agarbatti, waiting for the wick to sizzle, and rushing back to the safety of my parents, and the bucket of water. Once the 'easy' crackers were done with, it was time to move on to the nuclear crackers.

As we gear up to celebrate a muted Deepavali, I shall sit on my balcony and look at the clear sky. My mind, meanwhile, will be exploding with a combination of memories – the ultimate 'Ganga-Jamuna 2-in-1 bomb'. Happy Deepavali.

TURNING PAGES

'It's going to be all perfectly marvellous!'

Linnet Ridgeway!'
'That's Her!' said Mr Burnaby, the landlord of the Three Crowns.
He nudged his companion.
The two men stared with round bucolic eyes and slightly open mouths.
A big scarlet Rolls-Royce had just stopped in front of the local post office.
A girl jumped out, a girl without a hat and wearing a frock that looked (but only looked) simple. A girl with golden hair and straight autocratic features-a girl with a lovely shape-



a girl such as was seldom seen in Malton-under-Wode.
With a quick imperative step she passed into the post office.
'That's her!' said Mr Burnaby again. And he went on in a low awed voice: 'Millions she's got.... Going to spend thousands on the place. Swimming-pools there's going to be, and Italian gardens and a ballroom and half of the house pulled down and rebuilt....'
'She'll bring money into the town,' said his friend.
He was a lean, seedy-looking man. His tone was envious and grudging.
Mr Burnaby agreed.
'Yes, it's a great thing for Malton-under-Wode. A great thing it is.'
Mr Burnaby was complacent about it.
'Wake us all up proper,' he added.
'Bit of difference from Sir George,' said the other.
'Ah, it was the 'orses did for him,' said Mr Burnaby indulgently. 'Never 'ad no luck.'
'What did he get for the place?'
'A cool sixty thousand, so I've heard.'
The lean man whistled.
Mr Burnaby went on triumphantly:
'And they say she'll have spent another sixty thousand before she's finished!'
'Wicked!' said the lean man. 'Where'd she get all that money from?'
'America, so I've heard. Her mother was the only daughter of one of those millionaire blokes. Quite like the pictures, isn't it?'
The girl came out of the post office and climbed into the car.
As she drove off, the lean man followed her with his eyes.
He muttered:
'It seems all wrong to me-her looking like that.
Money and looks-it's too much! If a girl's as rich as that she's no right to be a good-looker as well. And she is a goodlooker....
Got everything, that girl has. Doesn't seem fair....'
Extract from the social column of the Daily Blague.
Among those supping at Chez Ma Tante I noticed beautiful Linnet Ridgeway. She was with the Hon.
Joanna Southwood, Lord Windlesham and Mr Toby Bryce. Miss Ridgeway, as everyone knows, is the daughter of Melhuish Ridgeway who married Anna Hartz. She inherits from her grandfather, Leopold Hartz, an immense fortune. The lovely Linnet is the sensation of the moment and it is rumoured that an engagement may be announced shortly.
Certainly Lord Windlesham seemed very épris!
The Hon. Joanna Southwood said:
'Darling, I think it's going to be all perfectly marvellous!'
She was sitting in Linnet Ridgeway's bedroom at Wode Hall.
From the window the eye passed over the gardens to open country with blue shadows of woodlands.
'It's rather perfect, isn't it?' said Linnet.
She leaned her arms on the window sill. Her face was eager, alive, dynamic.

Gerard Butler to reprise his role in Olympus Has Fallen 4

• CE Features

Gerard Butler will be returning for Night Has Fallen, the fourth installment in the Fallen film franchise. After 2013's Olympus Has Fallen, the series has had to follow up sequels, London Has Fallen, and Angel Has Fallen.

In the series, Butler plays Mike Banning, a former member of the US Army Special Forces. Olympus Has Fallen centered around a terrorist assault on the White House, and the plot revolved around Banning's mission to rescue the US President.

In London Has Fallen, Banning accompanied Asher to London and had to protect the president from assassination attempts. In Angel Has Fallen, Banning finds himself being framed and must work to clear his name.

Deadline has confirmed that Butler will return for Night Has Fallen, and that he will once again reprise his role as Banning, who has since been promoted from Secret Service agent to Director of the Secret Service. However, plot details for Night Has Fallen are currently under lock and key.

2020 HAS BEEN KIND TO ME: RACHITA RAM

• A Sharadhaa

Rachita Ram is unstoppable. One of the few Sandalwood actors who got to sign a series of projects during the pandemic period, she has also made her presence felt on the small-screen. The judge of the reality comedy show, Majaa Bharatha, has a dozen films lined up either for release or shooting and in the midst of all this, she has now bagged yet another film, which will have her collaborating with Malayalam directors Arunkumar M and Sabu Aloysius.

The project will be the second venture made under the banner of Friday Films, a production house of director Lohith H, in association with Silver Train International. The actor recently took to social media to make this announcement, and her post said, "Life is so colourful. I always get a reason to smile in form of a beautiful and thrilling script. Now am sure this will lead to many sleepless nights. Very excited to be part of this exciting and talented team (sic)."

Speaking to CE, Rachita mentioned that the storyline drew her to the movie. "The journey of the heroine goes along with that of the father, and it's a role I can closely connect with. Secondly, the character is very challenging, and demands performance."

A still from the film

A horror of a horror film

Shilajit Mitra

It's like all of Bollywood has conspired to make twenty-somethings feel old. As I write this, Kartik Aaryan is slated to resume Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2, a sequel to the 2007 film that defined the horror-comedy genre of today. And now, Akshay Kumar turns up in Laxmii, leaning laboriously on his past charms but failing to land a single laugh or scare.

Almost everything in Raghava Lawrence's film proceeds as a throwback: Inane plotting, humour built around a famous leading man in drag, a mawkish supernatural revenge plot to shame the Ramsay movies of old (the 'Laxmii' of this film is literally buried Do Gaz Zameen Ke Neeche - Two Yards Under The Ground).

When Rashmi (Kiara Advani) decides to visit her estranged parents for a few days, her husband, Asif (Akshay), joins her on the trip. As their names suggest, the couple was shunned by Rashmi's orthodox father (Rajesh Sharma); the trip is Asif's chance to win over his in-laws. This proves difficult when he gets posessed by a transgender ghost named Laxmii and starts exhibiting feminine traits - which, to Lawrence's mind, amounts to Akshay shasaying in a red saree and hissing out his words.

This is where Laxmii gets truely bizarre. The film (adapted from the Tamil hit Kanchana and co-written by Farhad Samji, Sparsh Khetarpal and Tasha Bhambra) treats its characters as cartoon figures, not just Asif but everyone else around him. Convinced her house is beset by ghosts, Rashmi's mother calls in an array of babas and fakirs; it leads to odd exorcism routines and a cow running amok in the house.

If the intention was just silly slapstick - and it often is - this would all be fine. But Laxmii also wants to be a conversation-starter of sorts, picking the cause of India's transgender community and having Akshay back the whole thing. In Stree (2018), this balancing of messaging and fun was achieved via smart writing and characters who stood out on their own. Lawrence, on the other hand, has little idea how to fuse both. Instead, he relies on screechy exposition and a 20-minute flashback to summarise his point.

RATING 1.5/5

The film is littered with references to Akshay's earlier works: when Asif is first possessed by Laxmii, we see the portrait of a classical dancer in the room, like Manjulika's in Bhool Bhulaiyaa. In another scene, Laxmii crawls out of a refrigerator to overwhelm a goon, much like the corpse in Sabse Bada Khiladi. One of Laxmii's hairstyles as Asif is a sleek middle part, the same as Professor Aman Verma in Sangharsh. The film is also echoed near the end, when Akshay wiggles his tongue and lets out a loud shriek, like Ashutosh Rana. I could go on, but there's really nothing here for ardent fans to cherish or fete. For Kiara fans, meanwhile, there's the Burj Khalifa number and baffled stares at her husband's antics.

In the opening moments of the film, Asif exposes a baba claiming to exorcise ghosts. Towards the end, he opens a centre to empower many more like Laxmii. For a brief moment, Lawrence's film appears to have found its heart. Except we are all grown up now and can see through the ruse. As the horrors of 2020 have shown, there's nothing hollower than plain good intentions.
